

Biddle, Philadelphia Blueblood, is Strong Man of Administration

WASHINGTON—The new strong man of the Administration—in a very quiet and dignified way—has turned out to be Francis B. Biddle, hawk-eyed Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

A blue-blood of Philadelphia blue-bloods, Washington first sized him up as an easy-going aristocrat, sure to be pliant to White House will.

He has turned out just the opposite.

He talks little, thinks fast, acts faster. When he does talk it is straight from the shoulder, with no ifs, ands or buts. He has stepped on a good many toes, including Miss Perkins', Donald Richberg's, even the President's. But he doesn't seem to care a snap of his finger.

Perhaps no New Dealer ever has quite put the White House in such an embarrassing position as Biddle did in the Jennings case—the reporter discharged from the San Francisco "Call-Bulletin" but ordered reinstated by Biddle's board.

Biddle decided the case strictly on what he considered its merits, with no regard for the test case which it placed on the doorstep of the White House in regard to the newspaper publishers of the country and the entire NRA.

And having made his decision, Biddle prepared a request to the NRA that the Blue Eagle of the "Call-Bulletin" be removed. But in order that he would not step on White House toes too hard, he first called up Louey Howe, closest adviser to the President. Louey asked that the letter to the NRA be held up one week.

"All right," replied Biddle. "I'll hold it until next Wednesday. And if you should decide that you want a little time beyond that, let me know. Otherwise I'll send the letter."

Wednesday 9 a. m. arrived. No word from the White House. Biddle waited not a minute more. He shot his letter to the NRA.

A few hours later Louey Howe telephoned.

"By the way," he said, "you'd better hold up that Jennings' case move a little longer."

It was too late. As between the publishers and the NRA, the White House had been put on the spot.

White House Collegiates

Knowing a young lady who is a guest at the White House has its thrilling aspects for any young swain, but for one who has just returned from the Christmas holidays, it also has its sad sides.

The young man, Harvard classmate of Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., spending the holidays with his family here when his most beloved came to Washington as one of about 40 young girls who were White House guests just after Christmas.

He called the White House, asked for his fair dame, finally heard a feminine voice say: "Hello? Who do you want?"

"Is Miss X there?"

"I don't know who's here," came back the answer. "There are so many of them I can't tell them apart. They're all over the place, goodbye."

Abashed, the young man hung up. Later, he found the lady of his life and demanded with some dignity:

"Who was that snooty woman who answered the phone?" "That," informed his lady coldly, "was Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and I don't blame her at all. For two hours all she had been doing was answering calls from college boys who wanted a thrill from talking to the White House."

"She couldn't even sit on her own bed for the suitcases and guests."

Reciprocity

It was the great ambition of Secretary of State Hull to have at least one of his new reciprocity treaties finished and ready to cite as Exhibit A when Congress convened.

Nearly six months had elapsed since Congress voted him the power to make these treaties without ratification. Never before in the history of the United States had this power been granted. So it

LOWER HOUSE SPEAKERSHIP CONTEST SEEN

Assembly Meets With Democrats Trying to Elect Bittering

G. O. P. IS UNSETTLED

Utility Issue Is Used Against Hamilton

COLUMBUS, Jan. 7.—Democrats' hopes of organizing the house of representatives and of naming the speaker of the law-making body rose sharply today when five of the 68 elected Republicans failed to answer the roll call for presentation of credentials as the new general assembly convened.

All 67 Democrats were present.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 7.—The legislature that will spell success or failure for Gov.-elect Martin L. Davey's "New Deal for Ohio" and which inherited from its predecessor the herculean task of permanently solving the state's financial ills, met today amid much uncertainty.

Davey will remain in the background for another week. Next Monday he will be inaugurated as the successor of Gov. George White.

Chief uncertainty as the 91st General Assembly members filed into the Senate and House of Representatives chambers was which political party would name the speaker and organize the lower house.

G. O. P. RANKS SPLIT
It could be either the Republicans or Democrats. The former enjoyed an elected majority of one House member, but while the minority appeared united behind the candidacy of Rep. J. Freer Bittering (D) Ashland, for speaker, no such unanimity prevailed in Republican ranks.

Much depended upon which side of the aisle has the greatest number of absentees when a speaker is elected. If there are none on either side, it will be the first time in many years that such has been the case.

Normally, the Republicans, with 68 members to the Democrats' 67, would organize the lower house.

SCHOOLS REOPEN, FISCHER ON JOB

Vacation which began Dec. 21 ended for Circleville's school pupils today with all returning to their classes.

The day also marked the advent of Frank Fischer, former member of the high school faculty, as superintendent taking the place left vacant by the demise of Edwin L. Daley.

Mr. Fischer was to meet all the teachers of the city for a conference in Miss Florence Brown's room this afternoon. Plans for the remainder of the school year were expected to be outlined.

HARPER IN PULPIT FOR TONIGHT'S RITES

The Union Week of Prayer services opened auspiciously at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

The worship service was carried on by the participating ministers. Mrs. J. O. Eagleson sang as a solo the opening words of the familiar 84th psalm. The sermon by Rev. E. Radebaugh, new pastor of the Evangelical church, was based on the Jesus' agonizing prayer in Gethsemane. It was a passionate appeal for like prayer on the part of Christians in the condition we are now facing.

The service tonight will be held at the Evangelical church at Washington and Mill-sts with Rev. T. C. Harper of the United Brethren church as the preacher.

Hospital News

Edgar Ward, of Chillicothe, was to undergo a mastoid operation at Berger hospital Monday afternoon performed by Dr. C. G. Stewart.

THOMAS RADER ILL

Thomas Rader is critically ill at his home 115 W. Mill-st.

New Ohio Warden?

Edward Jacot

With reports in circulation that Warden Preston E. Thomas of Ohio state penitentiary is to be removed when Ohio's Governor-elect Martin L. Davey takes office, Edward Jacot of Wooster, O., has been mentioned as a likely successor. Jacot is a former sheriff of Wayne-co. Thomas has held office for 20 years.

VOTING BEGINS IN SAAR TODAY

Germans Sure of Victory Although 40,000 Urge Retention of League Rule.

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Territory, Jan. 7.—Voting began today, quietly and without violence, in the momentous plebiscite whereby the Saar basin will determine its future territorial affiliation.

Today, tomorrow, and Wednesday some 20,000 civil servants, railway employees, gendarmes, and other government employees are balloting. The general public votes on Sunday to determine whether the territory governed by the League of Nations since 1919, shall remain under league control, join France, or go back to Germany.

GERMANS IN FRONT
Something of the relative strength of the opposing factions in the poll was indicated yesterday, when around 200,000 pro-Germans cried "we're going home" in the slushy sleet on one side of the town, and police herded some 40,000 favoring retention of league sovereignty on the other side of the capital. Their cry was "for Germany, but never for Hitler."

Minor clashes were reported, and while loud speakers at the Nazi meeting were cut, but there was no repetition of the battles of New Year's day, in which two died and eight were seriously hurt.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—That Germany, assured of victory, wants the Saar plebiscite to run its course as peacefully as possible was evident today from speeches made by two men high in Nazi councils yesterday.

Dillinger's Attorney Faces Trial Tuesday

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Whether or not the wooden gun brandished by the late John Dillinger in his sensational escape from the Crown Point, Ind., jail, was in reality a gun of gold, may soon be learned.

Louis Piquett, one-time city prosecutor and subsequently attorney for Dillinger and other members of his bandit crew, will go on trial in federal court here tomorrow charged with harboring and concealing Dillinger following the latter's escape from the Crown Point jail.

Philip Lutz, Jr., attorney general of Indiana, has openly charged gold and not the famed fake pistol carved by Dillinger from a washboard, enabled the outlaw to make his escape. The price of Dillinger's freedom was reported to have been $11,000.

Rev. Rose to Speak

Rev. W. B. Rose, of Williamsport, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Kiwanis club at Hanley's tearoom this evening. The meeting will be the first under the new officers.

A number of Kiwanians are planning to attend the inauguration of Ben Arneson, governor of the Ohio district, in Delaware Wednesday evening. Reservations should be made with Secretary Tom A. Renick.

ATTENDS SHORT COURSE

R. L. Brehmer, of the Brehmer Greenhouses, is attending a short course for florists at Ohio State university this week.

ALL SAVED AS LINER STRIKES BAHAMA REEF

Passengers, Crew of Liner Havana Reach Miami On Rescue Ship

83 REMAIN ON SHIP

Effort Made to Move Ward Steamer

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7.—Exhausted and suffering from exposure, yet thrilled by their adventure, 38 passengers and 30 sailors of the Ward liner Havana, which nosed into Mantilla coral reef off the Bahamas at 3:40 o'clock yesterday morning, arrived here aboard the Southern Pacific freighter El Oceano early today.

Eleven passengers and 13 members of the crew were due in Havana, Cuba, on the United Fruit steamer Peten at 11 a. m. The body of Robert W. Rittenhouse, 50, retired merchant of Brooklyn, N. Y., who died of apoplexy, was reported abandoned in a lifeboat. He was the sole casualty.

CAPTAIN ON BOARD

"All's well" was the latest word radioed by Capt. A. W. Peterson, 49, who remained aboard the Havana with 82 members of the crew, but an earlier message said two holds were filling with water. Tugs were fighting a heavy sea to pull the Havana off the shoal.

Calm and order, contrasting with the panic aboard the fire-swept Morro Castle of the same line, prevailed on the Havana as the El Oceano, Peten, and four other steamers deflected from their courses to her aid.

The passengers were given a warm breakfast before they were ordered into lifeboats, two hours after the first SOS crackled over the gulf stream. The Havana was in no immediate danger, Capt. Peterson radioed, but he was taking no chances on a repetition of the Morro Castle holocaust.

Six lifeboats bobbed on the roll.

CONGRESS RACE IS TAKING FORM

It is a long while between now and the next congressional election but aspirants to Mell G. Underwood's job have already started to enter the field.

It was but a few weeks after the election when Harry B. Welch, of Rockbridge, announced he would positively be a candidate. Saturday, Louis M. Day, of Chillicothe, when asked while visiting in Lancaster if he would again be in the contest, said: "I possibly will."

It is also reported from Lancaster that Dr. J. M. Lantz, head of the school board there, will be a candidate.

Welch, Day and Lantz were all among the candidates defeated by Mr. Underwood last fall.

No one has been advanced yet as Pickaway-co's candidate. Whether John F. Mader, who received a splendid vote in his first campaign last fall, will run is not certain.

If he follows his present plans, Congressman Underwood will not be in the race in 1936. Only a few weeks after the last election the New Lexington man let it be known he would not be in the race. He is planning to establish a daily newspaper in New Lexington, if he does not change his plans.

MANY FEARED DEAD IN RUSSIAN WRECK

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—A huge toll in death and injuries was reported to have been taken in a collision of two express trains today 150 miles south of Leningrad.

Four relief trains, carrying doctors, nurses, and medical supplies, rushed to the scene, and the hospitals in the towns of Malvinskaya and Okulievka were filled with the maimed. The Moscow express rammed the Tiflis express, and three coaches caught fire.

PRESIDENT HAS COLD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Roosevelt remained away from the executive offices today, nursing a cold contracted during his trip to the capitol on Friday.

He planned to transact some business, however, in his study. He was scheduled to discuss with Secretary of Labor Perkins late today details on the social security program which probably will be presented to congress later in the week.

LEECH, OF FEDERAL LAND BANK, TALKS IN CITY TUESDAY

Word has been received from Louisville, Ky., that W. E. Leech, from the Federal Land bank, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of the Pickaway-co National Farm Loan association to be held Tuesday afternoon, January 8, at the Farm Bureau home at 1:30 o'clock.

Mr. Leech will speak on the "Farm Outlook for 1935."

TWO SPEAKERS FOR C. C. MEET

Carlton Dargusch and Charles Watkins to Feature Thursday Program.

"The best meeting of the year" is the title given the annual session of the Chamber of Commerce to be held Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at Hanley's tearoom by its president, Reed Shafer. "We are going to have two speakers," Mr. Shafer said, "and both will have much information for the good of every Circleville business and professional man. One will be Carlton Dargusch, state tax commissioner, and the other will be Charles E. Watkins, of Chicago, former General Motors executive and a past district governor of Indiana Rotary clubs."

Dargusch, Mr. Shafer said, will be here in person or will send an efficient representative. Reservations for the meeting are to be made with either Harry Steinhauer or Mack Parrett, Jr. It is believed a large crowd will attend the meeting. Newly-elected directors will also be announced.

10 YOUTHS ENTER NEW FOREST CORPS

Ten Pickaway-co youths were taken to Columbus Monday morning as part of another unit of Civilian Conservation corps members. The boys were enrolled at the county relief administrator's office.

They include: Marcus Graves, Thomas Rhoades and Herman Will this city; Edward England, Salt Creek; Harold Gilmore, Muhlenberg; Paul Harrison, Perry; Roy Messmore, Scioto; Richard McGath, Monroe; Clarence Sheets, Perry and Luther Speakman, Deer creek.

Charles Keck, of Harrison-twp, who was to be the eleventh member of the group, did not arrive in time to accompany the others but his father was making an effort to get him to Columbus in time. John Ferguson, this city, was selected as an alternate.

COUNTRY CLUB MEETS JAN. 16

The annual meeting of active members of Pickaway Country club will be held Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 8 p. m., Clark Will, secretary, announced today.

Three trustees are to be elected at the meeting, the terms of C. D. Brunner, F. R. Caldwell and W. G. Hamilton expiring. Dr. G. D. Phillips is president of the club.

A proposal is to be voted to amend the code of regulations by the addition of a new section which would give the trustees power to make such revisions as seen necessary in dues and fees for the betterment of the club.

HAY BURNS IN BARN ON THATCHER FARM

The fire department answered two calls Sunday, one on the S. E. Culumber farm near Thatcher and the other at the old Patton property, S. Scioto-st at Ohio.

The Thatcher call was received from Robert Young at 9:45 a. m. when hay in the barn caught fire. About $10 worth of hay was destroyed while the only other damage was done by two mules which broke their harness to escape. Thad Hill is the tenant on the farm.

The Patton property call was only a smoke scare.

TAKES TULSA JOB

William Criswell, brother of Robert E. Criswell, has accepted a position with the Midcontinent Petroleum Co., Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Mrs. Criswell will make their future home.

Mr. Criswell has been associated with the Pickaway Finance Co.

NEW OFFICIALS ASSUME TASKS; RADER CHOSEN

Miss Burns, Mr. Wright Are New Office-Holders; Four Others on Job

SHORT STUDIES TASK

Pickaway Man Heads Commission Board

Two new Pickaway-co officials had assumed their positions today and a third was on the "scene" learning some of the duties of the task he will begin early in March.

The new officials are Miss Hilda Burns, recorder, and C. Edward Write, commissioner, who succeeded Mrs. Mary G. Morris and John G. Hay, respectively. Forster Short, who will soon replace Clifford M. White as auditor, was in the commissioner's room this morning learning the ropes.

All three of the officials are Republicans. It has been many years since the Pickaway-co court house has seen so many Republican office-holders.

FOUR OTHERS ON JOB

Four other officials began new terms Monday. Charles Radcliff, sheriff; Ray W. Davis, prosecutor; A. L. Wilder, clerk of courts, and C. E. Bowers, coroner. Of this group Davis is the only Republican.

After Short takes office the only other change in the county organization will come in September when Robert G. Colville becomes treasurer succeeding Earl L. Hoffman. Judge Joseph W. Adkins began his second term January 1, while the terms of Probate Judge C. C. Young, Commissioners Burr C. Rader and Ralph E. May, and Engineer Howard Sweetman do not expire for two more years. Each of these are four year terms with the common pleas judge's being for six years.

RADER IS PRESIDENT

The new board of commissioners, which sees a Republican return after all three offices have been held by Democrats for two years, organized Monday morning with Mr. Rader being elected president succeeding Mr. Hay.

M'CRADY HEADS K. OF P. LODGE

T. M. Glick, Circleville-twp will act as installing officer this evening at 7:30 o'clock when new officers of the Knights of Pythias lodge take their chairs.

The new officers include: Chancellor "Commander" Henry T. McCrady; Vice commander, George Byers; prelate, Robert Dorman; keeper of seals and records, L. S. Warner; Master of finance, J. B. Majors; Master of exchequer, H. R. Wilson; master at arms, Allen Hoover; inner guard, Virgil Brown; outer guard, Russell Miller.

REVOLVING PENSION PLAN IS RELATED BY CALIFORNIA DENTIST

CLEVELAND, Jan. 7.—Painting a word picture of 10,000,000 aged men and women all over the country being coming "money" for the government, this abolition of poverty forever, Dr. F. E. Townsend, Los Angeles dentist and advocate of the revolving pension plan which proposes to give $200 a month to every man and woman over 60, today left a glowing impression on the 2,500 persons he addressed here.

The cash to meet the $200 a month to be paid to each of the 10,000,000 would come from a 2 per cent transaction tax—a levy on all business transacted in the country, Dr. Townsend said.

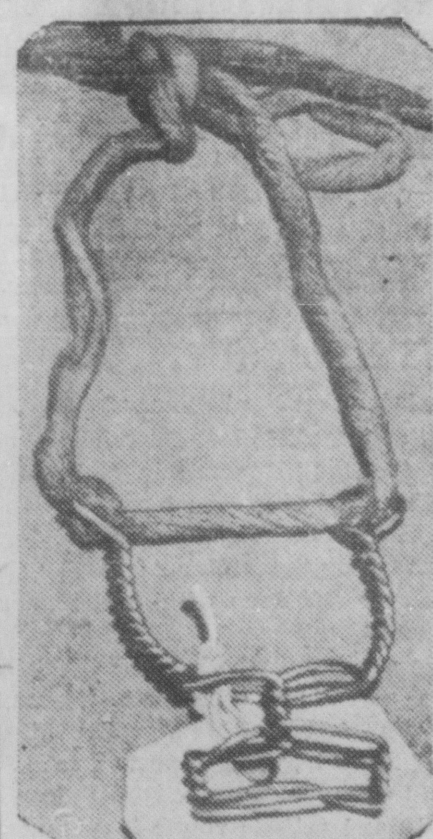

DIVORCE DISMISSED

The divorce petition of Grace R. Young against Clydus Young has been dismissed in common pleas court.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Woodrow Hicks, 21, Rt. 2, Orient, farmer, and Mary Alice Tynor, Rt. 3, Mt. Sterling, Earl F. Martin, 22, Rt. 3, Circleville, laborer, and Lovina A. Cupp, Lawrence McCormick, 27, 1332 Franklin-ave, Columbus, mechanic, and Edna L. Townsend, Circleville.

State's Exhibit No. 16

This is a closeup of the thumb-guard worn by the Lindbergh child on the night when he was kidnapped and slain. The guard, which Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, found 100 yards from the Lindbergh home in Hopewell, N. J., is being used as exhibit number 16 by the state in the trial of Bruno Hauptmann.

BRUNO'S TALE NOW AWAITED

Believe Story of Money In His Possession Will Be Changed by Reilly.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—The biggest sensation of the drama-packed murder trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann will occur when the taciturn defendant takes the witness stand.

His explanation of how he came into possession of more than $14,000 of the yellow-backed Lindbergh ransom bills—the most damning evidence against him in the case—will provide the greatest surprise of the trial, a source close to the defense said today.

Thus far Hauptmann has offered only one story—a story too fantastic even for the fantastic case—to account for his ownership of the money. He said that Isidor Fisch, a sickly Jewish furrier, gave him the money for safe-keeping last year before Fisch sailed for Germany where he died.

Hauptmann said Fisch gave him the money in a shoebox, carelessly wrapped in old newspapers. He said he was unaware the box contained money until rain from a leaky roof over a closet at Hauptmann's Bronx home soaked into the package last fall, about two weeks before his arrest.

It was one thing to relate this story in a perfunctory police examination. It will be an entirely different thing to tell it to a hard-headed New Jersey jury. The astute Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense counsel, realizes this. Hauptmann does too, now.

REPORT 4 THEFTS

Harry Gordon of the Circleville Iron and Metal Co. reported to police Monday that someone broke into the office of his junk yard over the week-end and stole a check writer valued at $85.

The Plymouth car of Marsh Barnes, 1003 E. Main-st, which was stolen Saturday evening, was later found on S. Scioto-st by police.

Mrs. Hildeburn Jones informed police Monday that the police dog belonging to her son, Burn, was missing.

Harry Woodard, Salt Creek-twp, told Sheriff Charles Radcliff, Sunday, that a thief stole 25 gallons of gasoline from his station Saturday night.

HORSE IS KILLED, 2 YOUTHS INJURED

A valuable black horse of Homer Cromley, Walnut-twp, was killed and Gene Ramey and James Cupp, this city, suffered minor injuries Saturday evening when the automobile belonging to Joe Moats that Ramey was driving struck the horse on the Scioto trail.

The Moats car knocked the horse down and another machine, which was not identified ran over the animal in the road. Three other horses were in the road at the time, officers were told.

FIGHTS TEARS, SHOWS JURORS TOT'S CLOTHES

Jurors Lean Forward in Chairs As Nurse Relates Details

GOW KEY WITNESS

Wilentz Laughs At Four-Piece Story

COURTROOM, Flemington, N. J., Jan. 7.—Bravely fighting back tears, Miss Betty Gow, key witness and the Lindbergh baby's nurse, on the stand today at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann identified the woolen shirt and sleeping suit the child wore the night he was kidnapped.

She identified cloth from which the little shirt was cut. She took the pathetic exhibits in her hands and showed them to the jury.

She also identified some blue silk thread that was given to her by Mrs. Elsie Whately, the Lindbergh butler's wife, and used by Betty in sewing the baby's shirt.

NAMES THUMB GUARD

She identified the thumb guard she had tied around the baby's wrist.

The jury of four women, and eight men leaned forward in their seats, as did the crowded roomful of spectators, as Miss Gow—the last person to see the baby alive—told of the happenings in the Lindbergh home on the fatal night of March 1, 1932.

Miss Gow was near tears as she told of the last night she put her baby charge to bed.

Col. Lindbergh shifted uneasily in his chair.

She was asked if shutters on the French windows were closed. She said they were closed securely.

Miss Gow then told how she prepared the child for bed.

Miss Gow's eyes were brimming with tears at this juncture, but she fought them back.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz permitted her to leave the stand to point out on a chart the location of the baby's nursery. She regained her composure.

Miss Gow said she went to the sitting room of the servants quarters, after putting the baby to bed.

WENT TO NURSERY

She said she later went upstairs to look at some dresses Mrs. Whately had bought. She said she stayed in Mrs. Whately's room until almost 10 o'clock.

"Then where did you go?" Wilentz asked.

"I started for the nursery," the nurse replied. "I proceeded to a bathroom and from there to the nursery."

"And when you got in there what did you find?" "Everything just as I left it," she replied.

"I didn't put the light on. I walked to the window to put it up and turned on an electric light. "I then walked to the crib. I put my hands on the rail. Waiting for the room to heat."

"Then I noticed I couldn't hear the baby breathe!"

"I reached down! He wasn't there."

An audible gasp came from one of the women spectators in the hushed courtroom.

Miss Gow was providing high drama at this point. Her voice was low and intense as she told of the discovery that the baby was gone. She kept her eyes on the ceiling.

"I then ran out to find Mrs. Lindbergh," she continued. "I met Mrs. Lindbergh and asked her if she had the baby. She said, 'No.' She turned quietly and ran downstairs."

WHEN DOES LIFE BEGIN

THE author of a best seller concludes that life begins at 40, an answer which will be accepted as incredible by young folks just out of school who look about them, find the prospect fair, and rashly conclude that they are just on the threshold of great adventure.

It is probable that no single answer will be acceptable and that the best of life's offerings come at varying times. For Alexander the Great, Shelley and Keats, life was over and done with, and immortality attained, before youth had more than passed.

But on the other extreme there are Cato, who learned Greek at 80; Goethe, who was the same age when he completed "Faust"; Teophrastus, who at 90 began his "Characters of Men," while Titian at 98 painted his historic "Battle of Kepanto," and Tennyson at 83 penned "Crossing the Bar."

All of these instances of virility and artistic power in advanced years do not, however, belong to the departed ages. At the age of 73, Frederick I. Waugh, American artist, has painted "Tropic Seas," which has won the Carnegie Institute's popularity prize.

But these are all exceptions to a fairly general rule which finds men and women of advanced years in a pitiable condition of poverty and despair. They constitute one of the most important of society's responsibilities, one whose fulfillment will constitute a fair basis for judgment of the true character of our civilization.

There are men and women in every community of whom it might be said that life begins at 40, but there are many others who have reached that age who are tottering wrecks, mentally, physically and financially.

A BOOM IN ECLIPSES

ANY attempt to assemble the coming important events of 1935 should not omit the eclipses for the year which, besides being certain, are also quite remarkable this year. There are seven in all, five of the sun as a result of the intervening of the moon between it and the earth and two of the moon as the result of an opposite process. The number of solar eclipses is the greatest since 1805, and it is the second time there have been five of them since 1255. There won't be another such number until 2485, so we had better enjoy what we have this year.

There have been seven eclipses in several years between, but always in a four-three combination instead of the five-two, as of this year. In the year just ended there were two lunar and two solar eclipses, but none of them was visible in the United States. That is the rub with regard to 1935's big show: only two eclipses will be visible in the United States. They are a partial eclipse of the sun on February 3, when the sun will rise eclipsed for the Pacific coast region; and a total eclipse of the moon on June 16, visible all over the country.

The last total eclipse of the sun visible in the United States was August 31, 1932, when, along with a number of stocks listed on the exchange, the sun dropped out of sight. The sun will next be obscured again in 1945. It's hard to tell about the stocks.

BRIGHT SPOTS

FOR a number of years the demand has been that something be done for the farmer, whose struggle against many forms of adversity has been admittedly desperate. Evidently, something has been done for him.

Despite the worst drought in the nation's history, cash income from agriculture increased $1,000,000,000 from 1933 to a total of $6,000,000,000 during the past year. This is one of the bright spots on the horizon as the new year swings into action.

Others are to be found in reports that industrial profits increased 70 per cent in 1934, while store sales gained on an average of 13 per cent. Wages of public utility corporations increased 25 per cent.

These are among many signs that make it possible to look forward to the next twelve months with greater hope than has found its way into the average heart for the last four years.

Now that the bills are arriving we realize more than ever that Christmas has just been here.

The period from 1920 to 1930 has been designated by a topical historian as "The Mad Decade." It has been followed by "The Sad Decade."

Some day when we can get around to it there should be fitting honors for those prophets who predicted twenty years ago that the war would bankrupt the world.

Unfortunately, many of our officials seem to labor under the misapprehension that they are supposed to work the public, rather than engage in public work.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

First robin of the year reported to have been seen by Ansell Whitel at Williamsport. On the same day Fred Tipton picked a dandelion in his back yard.

Frank Lape, 60, engineer at the Sears-Nichols plant, died following an illness of six weeks.

Thirteen cases of measles in Circleville were reported to the city board of health.

15 YEARS AGO

Ex-mayor John C. Goeller reported 210 arrests during the year 1919 and fines collected in the amount of $11,125.25. The previous year, 534 arrests were made.

Fire destroyed the town hall and completely gutted the Christian church at Williamsport. Loss estimated at $10,-

000. John Hess and Roy Smiley were injured by falling walls. The Circleville fire department was called and made the run to Williamsport in 20 minutes.

Charles H. May was elected president of the Circleville board of education, and Joseph R. Noecker was elected clerk. May furnished bond for $40,000.

25 YEARS AGO

The general store of William and Joseph Brecker, in which the Hallsville postoffice was located, was entered by burglars. The loss consisted of $130 in stamps and $75 in money.

Court house officials and attaches presented a gavel to John McGrady, the new president of the board of supervisors, when he was inducted into office. The presentation speech was made by Auditor John A. Dodd.

Mrs. Margaret Morris, a charter member of the local chapter of the Eastern Star, died following a lingering illness.

Little Sister

BY MARGARET WIDDEMER

READ THIS FIRST:

After reading a letter from her reckless young sister, Bet, announcing her proposed elopement with a carpenter, Lella Madison rushes to New York from her suburban home where she lives with her Aunt Minnie. The sisters are orphans and members of an old Westchester family. Arriving outside her sister's apartment, Lella, who virtually is engaged to Orton Johnston-Hedges, her aristocratic neighbor, runs into Jerry Redmond. He, too, as a roommate at Yale of the brother of Bet's fiance, is striving to halt the elopement. Jerry says the prospective bridegroom is Addison Huntington, a romantic radical, masquerading as Stark Freeman. Lella and Jerry find Bet and her roommate, Edna, waiting for Addy. He arrives a moment later. Jerry tells Addy the police want to question him about an acquaintance of his named Jarecki so they disguise Addy in girl's clothes. The police arrive and promise to return when they cannot find Stark Freeman, and remain on guard outside the apartment.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 9

"DO YOU MEAN to say," said Lella, in a voice that she did not attempt to keep from disgust, "that you are trying to keep this man permanently from arrest, when he deserves it?"

"Now, now, big sister. How many times have you kept your sister Bet from one thing and another that she deserved? I know routine when I see it. This isn't the first time you have leaped out of the social register and come galloping to the rescue. They don't deserve a thing, these nuts, so you and I, these most deserving people, will continue to strain every nerve."

"Not I," said Lella firmly. "Why should I let a criminal run around loose because my sister wants to elope with him?"

"He isn't a criminal," said Jerry patiently. "He didn't do anything but buck a strict father and get out on his own and become a Marxian Communist, which isn't even considered smart by the real ones today. High up, Addy, don't interrupt, I'm pleading for you. He also did a little bad carpentering from time to time. He also showed bad taste in getting mixed up with this Jarecki. He'd taken on a false name himself because his father's didn't stand for his principles exactly. The poor kid thought Jarecki was as honest as he was. That's all. I give you my word of honor."

"Nobody arrests you for having a new name or being a carpenter," said Lella obstinately.

"I told you about Jarecki. Jarecki is a bad egg. I forget whether he's anti-Fascist or carlist or Communist, but as a matter of fact he really forced me to live. So Addy, believing the best of everybody and still revolting against this and that, thought Jarecki was a wonder and wronged and all that. So the police are looking up Addy to see what he knows about Jarecki's last little foray. And if he's got at now, it might be third degree for Addy. Which would be uncomfortable."

"But then he wouldn't marry my sister without any ceremony," said Lella. "Sorry, but I'd rather the police got him."

"If you do," Bet said, stopping her tears as suddenly as a small child.

Bet and Addison nestled closer together.

"I'll go down myself. I mean it." And the trouble with Bet was you never could tell what she was going to do.

"Look here, Lella, use the intelligence," said Jerry. "They aren't the brain-using kind. We have to be. At least sit tight—if you don't help the preacher, don't help the bear."

Bet, indeed, was standing quite silent and despairing. She varied her despair by little darts about the floor.

"I don't know why I should!"

"Because you're a sport. And you're scared what Bet may do. She may. You can't keep Bet away from him. He'll be dragged down in a common ruin, to use a quotation she'd like."

"I will give myself up. Say no more," said Addison, rising from the couch and going toward the door. Jerry got between him and it.

"You would go romantic and theatrical," he said. "Shut up."

Bet clutched Lella's hands tightly. "I tell you, if you don't help us, I'll tell them I did all sorts of things. You don't like me to get in the papers. This will be in all the papers worse than anything."

It was a nightmare. It was all a nightmare. It had been one ever since that wild letter of Bet's and driving out of safe, sane Fernwood Manor, away from kind, sane Orton, into this melodrama. Yes, that was the word—it was a melodrama. She clung to the memory of Orton and Aunt Minnie and her work, of Orton's steady blue eyes and friendly slow voice, to try to keep her footing in realities, but it was no good. There were no Ortons or Aunt Minnie or dogs. There was only this crazy, deriding, lawless affair in this hot pungent studio, and she herself, as in a nightmare, feverishly obeying a total stranger in incredible performances.

"Let him go when the other police man comes back then," she said reluctantly.

"I don't think," Jerry said in the low voice still necessary because of the policeman outside the door, "that you realize how things are. Of course, Bet's devotion is our trump card, for I don't intend to let the poor kid get arrested. I suppose you heard them say that they are watching the ferries and the stations. Jarecki got away with a lot of money, and it's important or they wouldn't be making all this fuss. I propose that we all drive out to Westchester, or near by, and you let Addison out somewhere in a suburb where he can get a room and lie low till I can help him out."

"If you don't," Bet threatened, "I told you what I'd do—"

Any escape seemed preferable to any further scene. Lella was tired, she was beaten down.

She considered this for a moment, and painfully accepted it.

There was nothing to do but wait. The chair was hard, the air was bad, and Jane became increasingly and dangerously desirous of leaving. It was the longest half hour Lella had ever spent outside a dentist's chair.

Jerry Redmond did not seem to mind hard chairs, and time seemed obviously nothing to him. He sat placidly in an easy attitude, whistling "The Song Is Ended, but the Melody Lingers On," softly under his breath. He also, while he hummed this continuously, or as a fugue, made notes in a black notebook.

Lella had never had any dealings with a man who seemed to forget her so completely. Most men were completely conscious when she was around, sometimes embarrassingly so. Even Orton Johnston-Hedges, an Olympian personality to most of the human race, had his mind closely focused on her whenever she was anywhere near.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

In Hollywood, when one star agrees to support another star, that's news.

But when thirty stars agree to support another star—that's terrific!

Such was the case, however, in Universal's "Gift of Gab," at the Grand Theatre.

The eight-stars who chose to play a part in a satirical radio murder skit to make up a laughable interlude in the picture are Karloff, Bela Lugosi, Chester Morris, Douglass Montgomery, Roger Pryor, June Knight, Paul Lukas and Binnie Barnes.

The other stars of "Gift of Gab" include Ruth Etting, Phil Baker, Hugh O'Connell, Victor Moore, Gene Austin, Alice White, Marion Byron, Gus Arnheim and band, the Downey Sisters, the Beale Street Boys, Henry Armetta, Sterling Holloway, Alexander Woolcott and Wini Shaw.

AT THE CLIFTONA

All the prizefight scenes for "Jealousy," coming Tuesday and Wednesday to the Cliftona Theatre were filmed in the Hollywood American Legion Stadium where most of the notables in the motion picture colony gather each Friday night for the nationally broadcast bouts.

Lee Ramage, leading heavyweight contender, plays a prominent part in the picture which features Nancy Carroll, George Murphy and Donald Cook.

Poems That Live

RONDELL

Kissing her hair, I sat against her feet,
Wove and unwove it, wound and found it sweet;
Made fast therewith her hands, drew down her eyes,
Deep as deep flowers and dreamy like dim skies;
With her own tresses bound and found her fair,
Kissing her hair.

Sleep were no sweeter than her face to me,
Sleep of cold sea-bloom under the cold sea;
What pain could get between my face and hers?
What new sweet thing would love not relish worse?
Unless, perhaps, white death had kissed me there,
Kissing her hair.

THEODORE GOELLER TO MARRY IN KANSAS JAN. 9

Of interest to friends and relatives in this city is announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Reba Britton and Mr. Theodore Goeller, son of John C. Goeller, E. Mound-st.

The marriage will take place Wednesday, Jan. 9, at the bride's home in Coffeyville, Kansas. Miss Britton has been employed at the Bemis Bros. Manufacturing Co. in Wichita.

Mr. Goeller graduated from Circleville high school in 1926. He attended a military school in Sewanee, Tenn. for one year and also attended Colorado college at Colorado Springs. He is now associated in the wholesale furniture business in Wichita where he has resided for the past several years.

Mr. Goeller and his bride will leave after the wedding on a trip to Chicago and will also visit with his father here before returning to Wichita to make their home.

MARGARET MILLER AND ROBERT MOORE WED

At 10:30 Monday morning, Miss Margaret Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Miller, N. Scioto-st., and Mr. Robert Moore, son of Charles Moore, W. Water-st., were united in marriage.

Rev. T. C. Harper, pastor of the United Brethren church, read the ceremony at his home on E. Main-st.

The couple was attended by George Grubb, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Mrs. Thurman Miller, sister-in-law of the bride.

The bride has been cashier at the Cliftona theatre and Mr. Moore is employed at the Columbus Bolt works. They will make their home in Columbus.

Mrs. Dan Ryan is visiting in Columbus with her sister, Miss Julia Tracy, who recently fell and broke both of her wrists.

Household Arts

Applique and cutwork - a choice combination of two of the most popular forms of needlework! And, if you prefer, you can do the motifs entirely in cutwork. However, you will find the butterfly patch easy to apply and at the same time adding an effective note of color. You simply baste on the patch, leaving the edges raw, and then just buttonhole over these edges. To get a further color effect - and it is a very dainty one, too - you can do the roses and the leaves in colored buttonholing.

The motifs are lovely on scarfs, sheets and pillow cases, towels and other household linens. In pattern 5282 you will find a transfer pattern of a motif 6 1/2 x 36 inches, two motifs 5 x 10 1/2 inches, and of the applique patches; material requirements; directions for doing cutwork and applique; illustrations of all stitches needed. To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

naming Rep. Arthur Hamilton (R) Lebanon, speaker. But there was a loud rumble of dissatisfaction among Republican members over Hamilton's endorsement by the party caucus.

Charges that the utilities and other "special interests" dictated his selection were heard openly at the caucus. Taking advantage of this discontent, the Democrats openly invited dissatisfied members across the aisle to help them elect Bittinger speaker.

Democratic state headquarters insists that no patronage has been held out to Republicans as an inducement to bolt Hamilton for Bittinger, but any who do were virtually certain of choice committee assignments.

ALL MEMBERS PRESENT

Bittinger and his forces claimed all Democratic members would be present. The Republicans, working on a poll of their own group, had arrived at no final conclusion as to possible absentees.

Secretary of State George S. Myers, a Democrat, will preside in the lower house during the selection of a speaker. Supreme Court Judge Edward S. Matthias, a Republican, will administer the oath to the 135 members.

In the Senate, where the Democrats have 19 of the 32 seats, there was not the slightest doubt that Sen. Paul Yoder (D) Dayton, would be named president pro tem and majority floor leader; that Sen. Frank Whittemore (R) Akron, would get the minority floor leadership; that Dwight Matchette (D) Greenville, would be named clerk, and that the Democrats would decide who is to occupy each senate post for the next two years.

WOMAN ON STEAMER

At least one woman, a stewardess, was still on the Havana this morning. A reporter flying over the ship, 135 miles northeast of Havana, before boarding the El Oceano, could see her on the deck, where members of crew were played at work. A small dog accompanied her.

The liner rested snugly on about eight feet of water, apparently held in a vise between two reefs. Three coast guard cutters were trying to help the tugs approach her.

The sea had abated this morning, but the ship was taking a heavy pounding, and was in danger of breaking up.

The Havana advised offices of the line at 4:20 o'clock yesterday morning that she was in trouble, but did not send out an S. O. S. until 6:52 a. m. In the haze which prevailed, she was carried off her course, 15 miles east of the shoals she would have cleared.

"Illustrations of Nests, Eggs of Birds of Ohio"

A recent book on Ohio Art and Artists, in giving an introduction to an appreciation of the above named work, says "An incident seemingly very insignificant may lead to amazing results." In the article following, this product of an idea, conceived and developed in Circleville, more than fifty years ago, is described as "supreme among ornithological publications."

An interest in the study of nature brought the realization that, in all the books and writings, including some by the most famous naturalists of the world, little or no attention had been given to the nests and eggs of birds. In 1877, Miss Genevieve Estelle Jones, of Circleville, determined to make a series of plates illustrating the nests and eggs of Ohio birds, and, with the assistance of an intimate friend, Miss Eliza J. Shulze, soon arranged a plan of work.

MADE AGREEMENT

The young ladies had done some drawing with pencil, and coloring with brush, but neither had received any special training. Having decided that lithography offered the best means of presenting their work, they set themselves to acquire skill in the drawing upon lithographic stone. They agreed to do the drawing and coloring themselves and arranged with Dr. Howard Jones, brother of Miss Jones, to collect and arrange the nests and eggs to be illustrated.

Dr. Jones, who had previously made a thorough study of the subject, was also to write the text, to accompany the illustrations when published.

After some weeks of practice, Miss Shulze produced Plate I, and Miss Jones, Plate II. These having been printed successfully, several more were completed and the first six colored.

A prospectus of the work having been sent out to such persons as could be heard of, who might be interested, and a few subscribers having been obtained, Plates I, II, and III, with their accompanying text, were issued as Part I.

This first part was sent out in July, 1879, and the first encouraging comments were just being received when Miss Jones was taken ill, with typhoid fever, and died on Aug. 17, 1879, aged thirty-two years.

At first the future of the work was in doubt, but the mother of Miss Jones determined that the plan of her daughter should be carried out, and arranged to assist Miss Shulze with the work.

WITHDREW IN 1880

After some months Miss Shulze transferred her financial interest to Dr. N. E. Jones who assumed all expenses. Miss Shulze was employed to make the drawings upon stone, and Mrs. Virginia Jones to do the coloring. In April, 1880, Miss Shulze withdrew entirely from the undertaking. Not wishing to abandon the work, Mrs. Jones determined to do the drawing as well as the coloring, but, owing to the great amount of labor, other assistance was found necessary. Miss Nellie Jacob, of Circleville, was engaged to color the eggs and later Miss Josephine Klippart of Columbus, Ohio, gave valuable assistance in coloring nests, and still later, Miss Kate Gephart, of Circleville, was employed with her brush for nearly a year.

Of the plates drawn on the lithographic stone, ten were the work of Miss Shulze, five of Miss Genevieve Jones, and all of the remainder by Mrs. Virginia Jones. The text was all prepared by Dr. Howard Jones. Begun in 1878, the work was brought to completion in 1886. It was published in parts, and sent out to subscribers as completed and contracted for.

The text accompanying the plates contained the name of the bird—with date of residence in Ohio.

Locality of nest.
Position.
Materials.
Description of eggs.
Differential points.
Remarks.

The completed work contains a preface and introduction. The preface, from which this article is largely compiled, tells the history of the production of the work. The introduction gives a complete resume of the physical geography of Ohio and its relation to bird life. Throughout the book, valuable scientific information and personal observations are given.

MANY OWNED LOCALLY

While many of the books were owned locally by friends and those particularly interested in the undertaking, others became the valued possessions of many noted naturalists.

uralists and nature lovers. After fifty years, most of these are in the larger libraries of the country.

Of the early comments received, those of the most noted ornithological writers may be quoted:

Dr. Brewer, co-author of Baird, Brewer and Ridgway's "North American Birds" says: "It can not fail to take high rank above anything of the kind that has appeared in this country."

Dr. Coues, whose "Key to North American Birds" remains a standard work, wrote "I had no idea that so sumptuous and elegant a publication was in preparation, and I am pleased that what promised to be one of the great illustrated works on North American ornithology should be prepared by women."

Mr. Minot, author of Land and Game Birds of New England, commented "My enthusiasm has not been so excited for a long while. After careful consideration, I can think of no book on natural history in which the beauties of art and nature are so largely combined."

At the World's Fair, in Chicago, in 1893, special awards were made on the beauty and excellence of this work.

In a recent lecture on "Arts in Books", Dr. Jens Christian Bay, librarian of the John Crerar Library of Chicago, said—"and from a little town in Ohio came one of the most beautiful books ever produced in America."

In adding this work to the Circleville Public Library, it is felt that a duty to the community is fulfilled, and a memorial provided, that will furnish inspiration to future generations.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Huston and daughters Barbara and Beverly, N. Court-st., were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yearling of Columbus.

ASHVILLE FIVE TOO FAST FOR TIGER VARSITY

Scoles Tallies 18 While Team-mates Add to 40-21 Score; Reserves In Victory.

Ashville high school continued its drive Saturday evening toward recognition in this section of Ohio by soundly thrashing the Circleville varsity, 40-21. The villagers played their driving, fast offense with Jimmy Scoles again in the leading feature.

Although Coach Pete Herberholz played two men on him the entire game, Scoles connected for eight action shots and tossed the leather through the iron twice from the penalty circle. He tallied 12 points in the first half while Kirwin and Speakman were watching him but he settled down in the second half getting but five points. Whenever Scoles was bottled up, however, Walter Gregg, mite sophomore, or some other athlete, would break loose. The entire winning team was hot.

GETS BALL, ITS POINTS

Coach Pete Herberholz, benefited by scouting the Ashville-New Holland game, had a good defense worked out for the Ashville flash but it just wouldn't work. Everytime the big fellow got his hands on the ball it was points.

Scoles scored on the first tipoff, taking a pretty pass from Young. The period ended 6-3 with the Ashville setting five of his team's six points. Jenkins' basket and Speakman's free throws comprised the Tiger quota. Gregg's basket, Young's free toss and Scoles' eight points on four shots from the floor gave Ashville 17 at the half while Grant was counting from the field and Henry was tossing a foul to make the Tiger quota six.

The third period was the best played by the Red and Black with 11 points tallied against 13 for the winners, but the final session saw the Tigers get but four against 10.

ALL SCORE ONCE

Every man who entered the game for Ashville scored at least once.

A large crowd saw the fray with Ridenour, Canal Winchester minister officiating.

CHAMP CHOPPER TO APPEAR HERE

Peter McLaren, the world's greatest wood chopper, will appear at the Barrere-Nickerson store, W. Main-st., January 14, for an exhibition.

A log has been placed in front of the store to help create interest in McLaren's stunt.

A prize is offered to choppers who can come close to the time established by the champion.

FAVOR CAVALCADE

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. Jan. 7—Cavalcade today was installed the future book favorite for the $100,000 Santa Anita, Cal., handicapped at 3 to 1 odds. Equipoise is now rated at 4 to 1, Time Supply 6 to 1, Twenty Grand at 8 to 1 and Azucar at 10 to 1. The handicap is to be held Feb. 23.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

MAY PLAY WATERLOO

It was reported at Ashville Saturday evening that a game is being sought with the sensational Waterloo team sometime in February—it is doubtful if Ashville can guarantee the Waterloo team enough simoleons to come to the Harrison-town village but it seems to us it would be well worth while if the town's merchants would chip a little into a pot to provide enough money to book the Waterloos, who are the talk of Ohio basketball right now.

HERE AND THERE

Coach Shadel Saunders, of New Holland, was in the stands Saturday night trying to glean further information on the Ashville team which has beaten his county champions twice this year—New Holland dropped a tough one to Franklin Friday evening. The Chillicothe - Greenfield encounter won by the latter, 22-20, was a thriller—it required overtime—Jimmy Hull, of course, was the star—Tigers play their second game of the CBL season Friday evening at Delaware—Frank Colley of the Dispatch says the game is a toss-up with the Tigers having a chance if they are on.

O. N. G. TO WASHINGTON

It was announced in Washington C. H. today that the Ohio National Guard basketball tournament, open to all O. N. G. outfits in Ohio, will be held in that fair city Feb. 21, 22 and 23—Lieut. Virgil Sexton will be in charge. The tournament is sanctioned by Adj. Gen. Frank Henderson, commander of the O. N. G., and his successor, Major Emil Matz—it is believed around 20 teams will take part—Whether either of the local units will play is not certain at this time.

AVERAGES 19 4-7 POINTS

For some reason we can't seem to get this Scoles boy out of this column—in seven games played to date he has scored 137 points, an average of 19 4-7 points per game.

BUCKEYES FACE MICHIGAN FIVE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 7—Their Big Ten record already blemished by a 32 to 21 defeat at the hands of Iowa last Saturday, Ohio State university basketball players were to arrive here today for the first of the season's two scheduled clashes with the University of Michigan.

Although neither team was rated as a contender for the Big Ten championship, the cage game tonight took on the aspects of a night battle, with The Bucks out to avenge two defeats handed them by the Wolverines last year. Michigan also will go into the game tonight fresh from defeat. The Wolverines succumbed to Syracuse Saturday night.

Deny Turning Pro

Announcement that Helen Jacobs, top; Fred Perry, center, and Eileen Bennett Whitting-stall, below, had turned professional and would play with Bill Tilden and others in William F. O'Brien's touring troupe, were denied by Miss Jacobs and Perry. Miss Jacobs said she was not planning to turn pro, and Perry, generally regarded as world champ, declared he would remain an amateur "unless offered a million pounds."

HARLOW NEW GRID COACH AT HARVARD

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Two weeks ago, Bill Bingham, graduate manager at Harvard, barangued the football coaches association about ideals, the higher aim and other trivia of American football, the man's manner being both earnest and just a shade plaintive. Last night, Mr. Bingham announced that, after due deliberation, he had hired Dick Harlow, of Western Maryland, as head football coach at Harvard for the season of 1935.

So are Lou Little, of Columbia, and Clark Shaughnessy, of Chicago. The only reason I mention them is that they also were considered for the Harvard job. Little, in fact, was the man Harvard really wanted; at least, Harvard told everybody this was so—except Little. He never was personally approached. I might add that he draws $15,000 a year at Columbia and his contract has two years to run.

PLAN LARGER CHIO CORN, GRAIN SHOW

Third More Donors Support Annual Farm Week Grain Exhibit

Prospects are excellent for a bigger and better exhibit at the Ohio State Corn and Grain Show to be held again this year during Farmers' Week, January 28 to February 1, at the Ohio State University, Columbus.

R. D. Lewis, secretary of the Ohio Seed Improvement Association, one of the sponsors of the show, announces an increase in the number and value of premiums offered for the more important classes of grain. There are 44 classes listed in the premium list, just published, for the twenty-seventh annual show.

A third more donors are contributing premiums this year, and the number of advertisements in the premium list is double that of last year, Lewis says.

Along with the corn and grain show there will be held the seventeenth annual farm equipment exhibit, arranged by the department of agricultural engineering at the university. All exhibits are to be set up in Ives Hall.

Entrance applications must be received by Thursday, Jan. 24, and exhibits must arrive by 2 p. m. Saturday, Jan. 26.

MAY END FESLER JOB

Harlow is to have the choice of his own assistants, which seems to forecast the end of those still hanging on at Cambridge. Of course no one can blame Harlow if he throws the 1934 line up away. With Eddie Casey, Harvard, as head coach and Wesley Fesler, of Ohio State, and Adam Walsh, of Notre Dame, as assistants, they were using the scrambled egg and marmalade system.

TIE AT MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7.—Tommy Armour, former U. S. open champion and present Canadian open titleholder, and Willie Klein, East Williston, N. Y., were tied for the lead with 139 strokes at the half-way mark in the 72-hole Miami open golf championship as 75 survivors began the final 36-hole round today.

Klein carded a 71, one over par yesterday while Armour, the early leader, took a 73. Dave Tosh, Chicago, was third with 141 and Joe Turnesa, Hartford, Conn., fourth with 142. Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond, Va., carded a 68, lowest round of the day, for a total of 143.

PRESIDENT PLACES IMPORTANT BUDGET BEFORE SOLONS

YEAR EXPENSE EIGHT BILLIONS

Demands For Relief to Prevent Complete Balancing of the Budget.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Roosevelt laid the most important budget in the history not only of the United States but probably of the world before the Congress today.

This budget called for expenditures in the year ending June 30, 1936, of $8,520,413,609.

While $61,000,000 under the expenditures estimated for the current fiscal year the new budget was vastly more important since it reflected the studied judgment of the administration after two years experience with the worst depression the nation has ever known.

BUDGET "BALANCED"

In 1933 the government contemplated spending more than four and a half billion over its income. However, as the President pointed out, the budget is "balanced" except for the money to be spent to prevent starvation of more than five million people. The difference between the receipts and expenditures is measured by recovery and relief expenditures.

There will be little if any tax increase during the next 18 months—unless the Congress should decide to make appropriations that are not recommended by President Roosevelt.

In the budget message there was no mention of the payment of the soldiers' bonus. But there was the obvious conclusion from Mr. Roosevelt's remarks in a discussion of the budget with newspaper men that if the bonus is to be paid Congress must provide some method of furnishing the income necessary to pay for it.

Of greatest significance was a statement made on behalf of the President that the administration will not "stand for" efforts of minorities—including veterans—to bring about the "forgiveness of debts." Debts to the government, whether owed by home owners, states or municipalities, must be paid, according to the tenor of the budget message and the President's informal remarks.

TO DIRECT RELIEF

Mr. Roosevelt plans to direct his "work relief" program personally. He asked nearly four billion dollars for this purpose. Possibly a billion dollars of this fund will be loaned to states and municipalities so they may conduct "work" activities that will support their needy. Further than that Mr. Roosevelt was not ready to divulge his program of "work relief."

The intimation, however, was that those capable physically and mentally of working who do not desire to work will assist from labor at the risk of not eating.

In the "transition period," however, funds will be provided in the amount of about $900,000,000 for direct relief if Congress accepts the recommendations of the President. Certain funds available from the RFC and other agencies, he said, should be transferred to direct relief accounts to be disbursed during the next six months before the government's "work relief" program has taken form.

Time will be required to set the new program in operation. This vast scheme designed to give employment to 3,000,000 persons directly and to 3,500,000 indirectly probably will not be in full swing until autumn. The President anticipates that the plan will set into motion such machinery that will stimulate private employment and thus create a great market for manufactured commodities.

TO PROVIDE MARKET

Complete recovery is predicated, it was admitted frankly, on the creation of a market for the products of the "heavy industries" such as steel, building trades and others. Their recovery will be slower than the producers of the so-called consumer products, although even at present, in the opinion of the President, there is developing some market for the output of the heavy industries.

Inflation, according to the commonly accepted interpretation of the word, is "out" so far as the next 18 months are concerned, according to Mr. Roosevelt.

DEPOSITORS SEEK AID OF GOVERNORS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 7.—Five hundred depositors of the Columbus Building and Loan Co. are planning to visit Governor George White urging him to support legislation against a reorganization of the Columbus. They will later visit Governor-elect Martin L. Davey.

FIGHTS TEARS

aroused considerable conjecture as to the identity of these persons.

Some of those who are guessing believe Reilly will name the dead Isidor Fisch, whom Hauptmann said left the Lindbergh ransom money in his safekeeping; the dead Oliver Whately, the Lindbergh butler and the dead Violet Sharpe, maid at the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother at Englewood, N. J., of course this is all conjecture and Reilly may not name any of them. This leaves a fourth person for Reilly to name. There are many guesses as to the identity of "No. 4."

WILENTZ SCOFFS

Attorney General David T. Wilentz scoffed at the suggestion that four persons will be named by Reilly. In Wilentz's opinion the kidnapping was a "one man job" and Hauptmann did the job.

"The state of New Jersey, is not interested in bed-time stories," Wilentz said. "Since March 1, 1932, the department of justice, the internal revenue bureau and the police departments of New Jersey and New York have worked on the case. They solved it by the arrest of Bruno Hauptmann."

"To say we are suspicious of suggestions from sources interested in Hauptmann who is attempting to shift blame for the crime is expressing it very mildly."

Wilentz said the state places no credence in rumors or suggestions or innuendoes that any of the servants of the Lindbergh home are involved in the kidnapping.

Dr. John F. ("Jafie") Condon, the Lindbergh intermediary who paid the $50,000 ransom to a mysterious "John" in St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx, motored to Trenton and conferred there last night with Attorney General Wilentz. They rehearsed the testimony Condon will give when he appears at the trial as a voluntary witness for the state. It is expected Condon will identify Hauptmann as the man to whom he paid over the money that night in the cemetery.

CALLED NEXT WEEK

Condon probably will not be called to the stand for several days, perhaps not until next week. Wilentz pointed out that the state is conducting the case in a chronological order and at present is taking up events concerning the night of the crime. That is why Betty Gow will be the first or second witness today. Condon's story has to do with events which followed some time later.

"Dr. Condon is certain to take the stand," said Wilentz. "He must testify. He is the man who delivered the ransom and his testimony is vital to give a clear picture of what happened in this crime."

Colonel Lindbergh, it was learned on good authority, has received a number of "crank" letters since he testified last week. He also has received many congratulatory communications.

Betty Gow's testimony is expected to take up most of today.

The kidnap ladder, chisel and dowel pin found near the Lindbergh home on the night of the kidnaping will be offered in evidence during the day.

Hauptmann, meanwhile, spent a quiet week-end. He was as non-communicative as ever in his cell in the Hunterdon-co jail. He spent a great deal of his time prowling back and forth in his cell, smoking innumerable cigars and cigarettes. Thousands of visitors trekked into Flemington Sunday by motor cars. Hundreds of persons visited the court house and signed a register. Ten constables struggled to control the crowds which pushed into the historic little structure.

VANDALISM PREVAILS

More than a score of persons were rejected from the court house for vandalism. Some of the visitors began taking everything in sight, such as calendars, scraps of legal memoranda and even reporters' discarded notes.

2 ATTACK GUARD

COLUMBUS, Jan. 7.—Peter Sabian, 47, employee at the governor's home, told police Sunday that he was stabbed at 2 a. m. when he frustrated attempts of two men to steal one of the governor's cars from the garage. He said he was roused from his sleep by the robbers.

GAS PRICE TO BE DISCLOSED FOR ROSS CITY

Conference of Interested Officials Scheduled; May Be Known January 14.

CHILLICOTHE, Jan. 7.—An announcement of the gas rate for this city in its pending gas case before the state utilities commission may be expected on Monday, Jan. 14, when C. E. Brown, Burns & McDonnell engineer employed by the city, has been asked to confer with Louis Dade, an engineer with the public utilities commission.

Dade says he will confer with Brown regarding the gas rate price for Chillicothe determined on the basis of the property and distribution valuations for the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. which have already been determined.

Dade, it will be recalled, is the utility commission engineer who well over a year ago made a "horse-back" survey of the gas rate situation here and in conjunction with another engineer from the PUCO found that a fair gas rate for the city at that time would be slightly in excess of 70 cents. He said at that time that in another year or two, due to rising costs, it would be considerably higher.

Engineer Brown, working with Ohio Fuel Gas Company engineers, found the physical valuation of the company's properties here to be $409,085, exclusive of going concern value, cost of financing, and cost of opening paving above mains. This was considerably higher than the valuation included in Dade's 1933 figures. Operating costs were figured by Brown at $9.91 per capita including taxes and $7.70 per capita exclusive of taxes.

At least six Ohio cities involved with the Ohio Fuel Gas Company or related concerns, have cases pending in the commission, all of them of course interested in the outcome of the Columbus case. These cities are Springfield, Mansfield, Coshocton, Toledo, Chillicothe, and Dayton.

The Columbus case has huge fire for five years. Since the appeal of the company from a 48-cent rate ordinance there, the company has been collecting 55 cents under bond. The Columbus case went to the United States supreme court which remanded it to the Ohio supreme court which

So the German will not repeat the Fisch story from the witness stand, according to a source identified with the defense.

Under Reilly's questioning, Hauptmann will do one of two things, it was said. He either will give an entirely new explanation for his possession of the money, or he will tell such an amplified version of the Fisch story as to constitute almost a new alibi.

Then too, Reilly might confound everybody by keeping Hauptmann off the stand altogether.

Girl to Woman

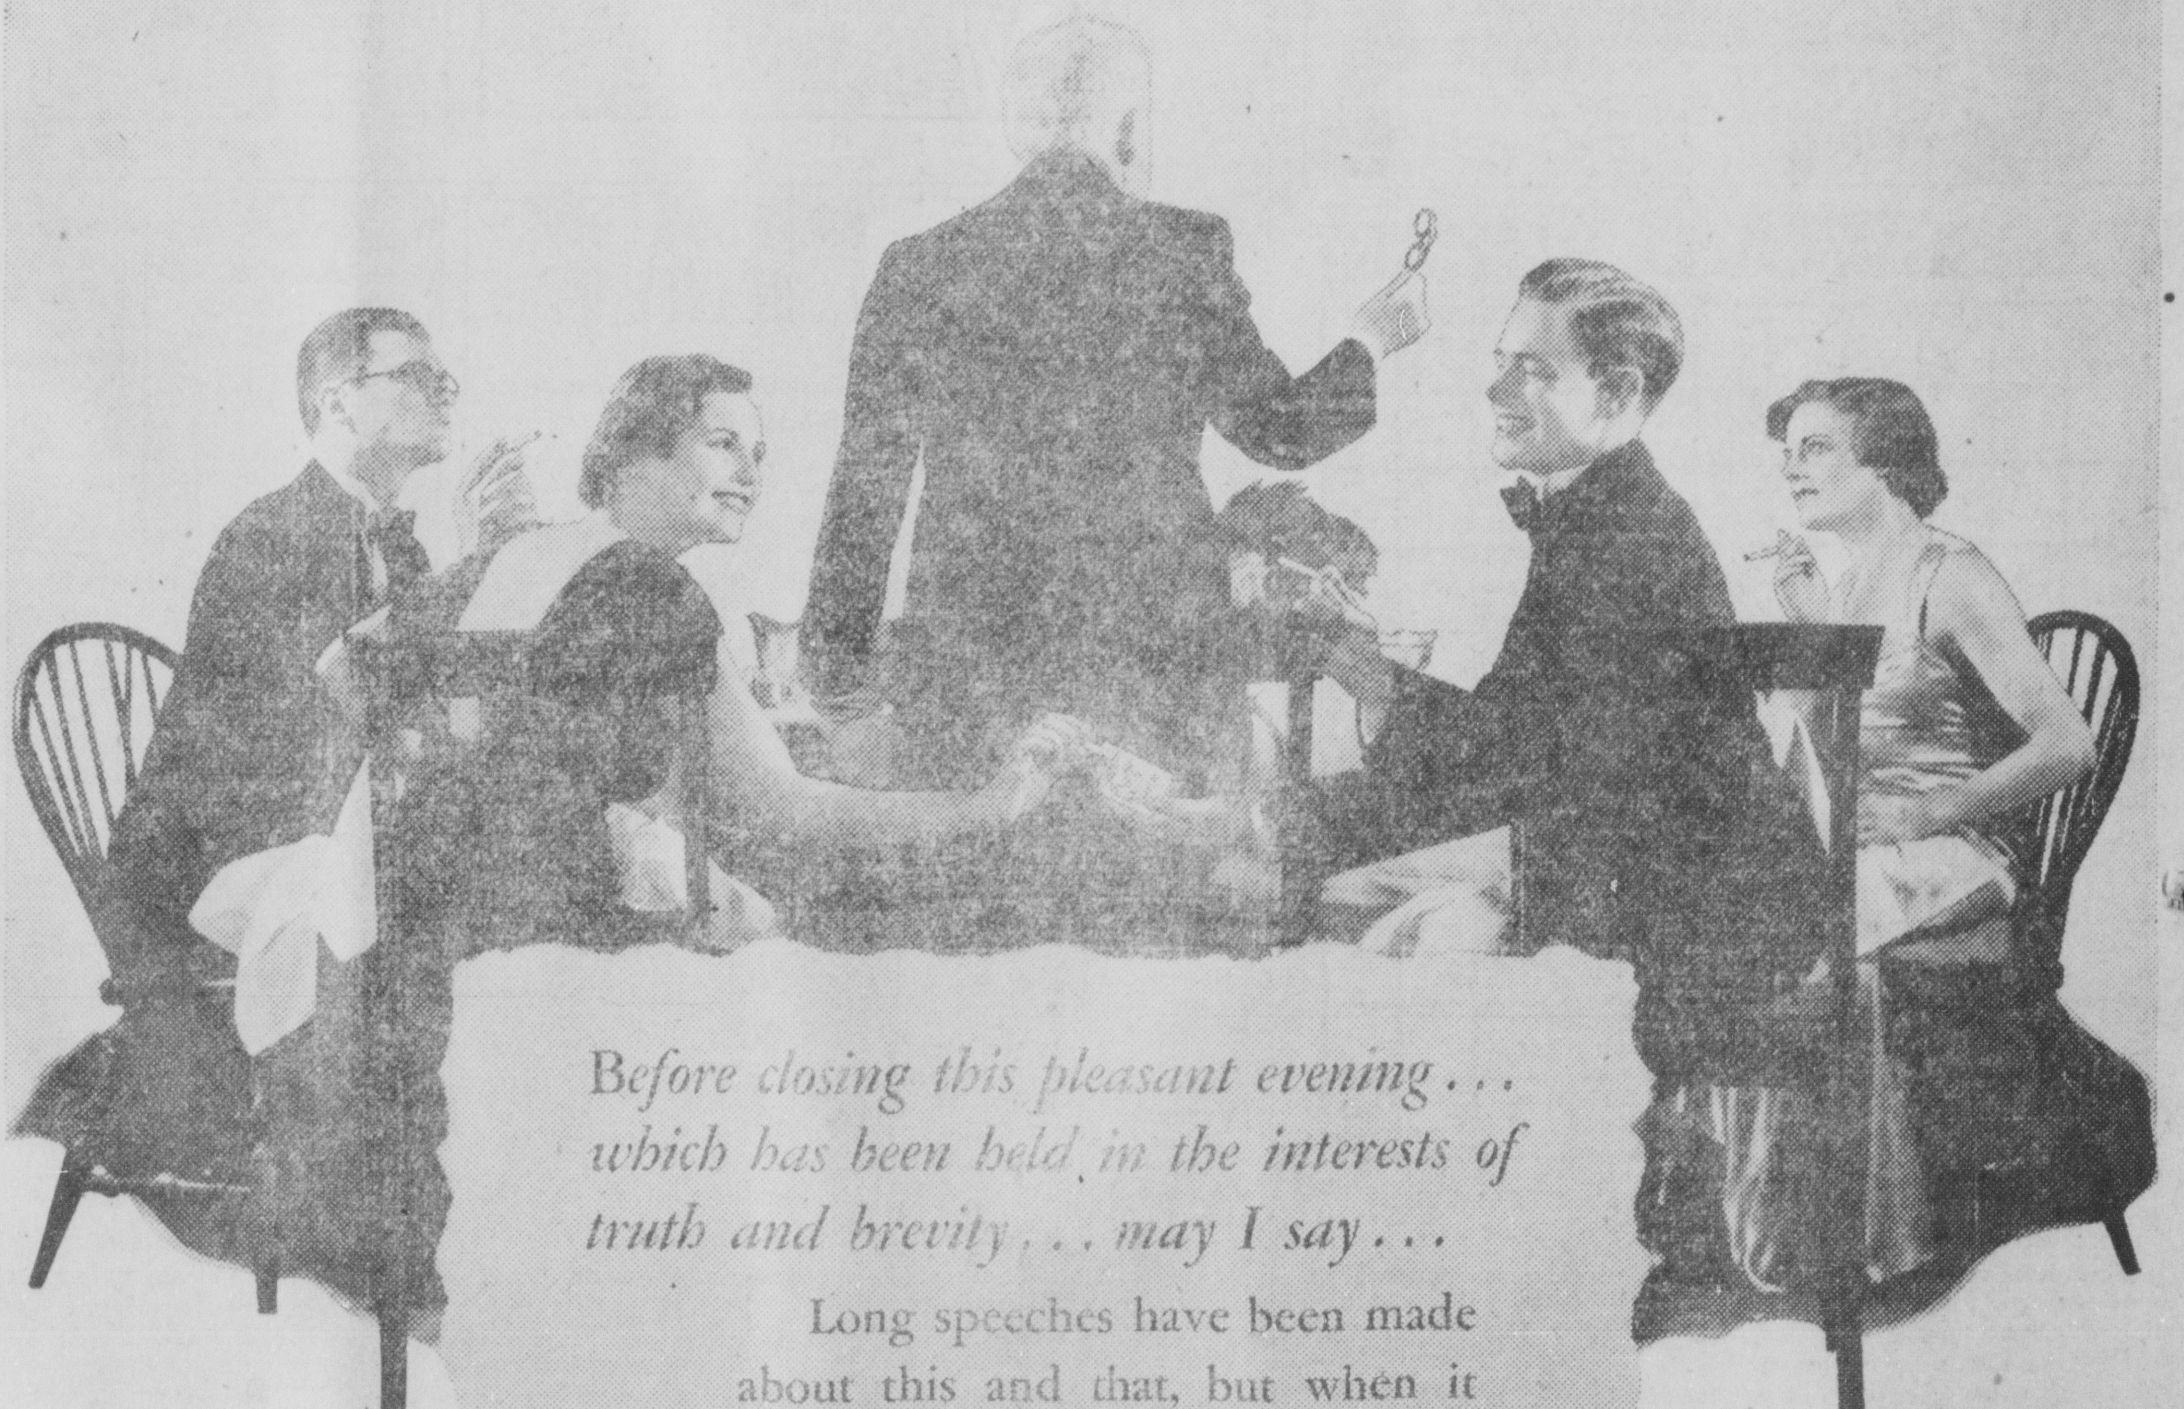

No need for girls to suffer every month from periodic pains, headache or dizziness. In girlhood Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a very beneficial tonic. This is what Miss Hazel Moore of 114½ W. 4th St., Michigan City, Ind., said: "When developing into womanhood I became thin and puny. Monthly pains and cramps were so severe I would be in bed a week or more—could hardly hold up my head. I had hardly finished the second bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when I gained in weight and all my suffering had disappeared. I have never been troubled in that way since." Biddle, Philadelphia
Blueblood, is Strong
Man of Administration

WASHINGTON—The new strong man of the Administration—in a very quiet and dignified way—has turned out to be Francis B. Biddle, hawk-eyed Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

A blue-blood of Philadelphia blue-bloods, Washington first sized him up as an easy-going aristocrat, sure to be pliant to White House will.

He has turned out just the opposite.

He talks little, thinks fast, acts faster. When he does talk it is straight from the shoulder, with no ifs, ands or buts.

He has stepped on a good many toes, including Miss Perkins', Donald Richberg's, even the President's. But he doesn't seem to care a snap of his fingers.

Perhaps no New Dealer ever has quite put the White House in such an embarrassing position as Biddle did in the Jennings case—the reporter discharged from the San Francisco "Call-Bulletin" but ordered reinstated by Biddle's board.

Biddle decided the case strictly on what he considered its merits, with no regard for the test case which it placed on the doorstep of the White House in regard to the newspaper publishers of the country and the entire NRA.

And having made his decision, Biddle prepared a request to the NRA that the Blue Eagle of the "Call-Bulletin" be removed. But in order that he would not step on White House toes too hard, he first called up Louey Howe, closest adviser to the President. Louey asked that the letter to the NRA be held up one week.

"All right," replied Biddle, "I'll hold it until next Wednesday. And if you should decide that you want a little time beyond that, let me know. Otherwise I'll send the letter."

Wednesday 9 a. m. arrived. No word from the White House. Biddle waited not a minute more. He shot his letter to the NRA.

A few hours later Louey Howe telephoned.

"By the way," he said, "you'd better hold up the Jennings' case move a little longer."

It was too late. As between the publishers and the NRA, the White House had been put on the spot.

White House Collegiates

Knowing a young lady who is a guest at the White House has 18 thrilling aspects for any young swain, but for one who has been to the White House, the Christmas holidays, it also has its bad sides.

The young man, Harvard classmate of Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., was spending the holidays with his family here when his most beloved came to Washington as one of about 40 young girls who were White House guests just after Christmas.

He called the White House, asked for his fair dame, finally heard a feminine voice say:

"Hello? Whom do you want?"

"Is Miss X there?"

"I don't know who's here," came back the answer. "There are so many of them I can't tell them apart. They're all over the place, goodbye."

Abashed, the young man hung up. Later, he found the lady of his life and demanded with some dignity:

"Who was that snooty woman who answered the phone?"

"That," informed his lady coldly, "was Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and I don't blame her at all. For two hours all she had been doing was answering calls from college boys who wanted a thrill from talking to the White House."

"She couldn't even get on her own bed for the suitcases and guests."

Reciprocity

It was the great ambition of Secretary of State Hull to have at least one of his new reciprocity treaties finished and ready to cite as Exhibit A when Congress convened.

Nearly six months had elapsed since Congress voted him the power to make these treaties without ratification. Never before in the history of the United States had this power been granted. So it

LOWER HOUSE SPEAKERSHIP CONTEST SEEN

Assembly Meets With Democrats Trying to

G. O. P. IS UNSETTLED

Utility Issue Is Used
Against Hamilton

COLUMBUS, Jan. 7.—Democrats' hopes of organizing the house of representatives and of naming the speaker of the law-making body rose sharply today when five of the 68 elected Republicans failed to answer the roll call for presentation of credentials as the new general assembly convened.

All 67 Democrats were present.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 7.—The legislature that will spell success or failure for Gov.-elect Martin L. Davey's "New Deal for Ohio" and which inherited from its predecessor the herculean task of permanently solving the state's financial ills, met today amid much uncertainty.

Davey will remain in the background for another week. Next Monday he will be inaugurated as the successor of Gov. George White.

Chief uncertainty as the 91st General Assembly members filed into the Senate and House of Representatives chambers was which political party would name the speaker and organize the lower house.

G. O. P. RANKS SPLIT
It could be either the Republicans or Democrats. The former enjoyed an elected majority of one House member, but while the minority appeared united behind the candidacy of Rep. J. Freer Bittering (D) Ashland, for speaker, no such unanimity prevailed in Republican ranks.

Much depended upon which side of the aisle has the greatest number of absentees when a speaker is elected. If there are none on either side, it will be the first time in many years that such has been the case.

Normally, the Republicans, with 68 members to the Democrats' 67, would organize the lower house.

SCHOOLS REOPEN, FISCHER ON JOB

Vacation which began Dec. 21 ended for Circleville's school pupils today with all returning to their classes.

The day also marked the advent of Frank Fischer, former member of the high school faculty, as superintendent taking the place left vacant by the demise of Edwin L. Daley.

Mr. Fischer was to meet all the teachers of the city for a conference in Miss Florence Brown's room this afternoon. Plans for the remainder of the school year were expected to be outlined.

HARPER IN PULPIT FOR TONIGHT'S RITES

The Union Week of Prayer services opened auspiciously at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

The worship service was carried on by the participating ministers. Mrs. J. O. Eagleson sang as solo the opening words of the familiar 84th psalm. The sermon by Rev. T. C. Harper, pastor of the Presbyterian church, was based on Jesus' agonizing prayer in Gethsemane. It was a passionate appeal for like prayer on the part of Christians in the condition we are now facing.

The service tonight will be held at the Evangelical church at Washington and Mill-sts. with Rev. T. C. Harper of the United Brethren church as the preacher.

VOTING BEGINS IN SAAR TODAY

Germans Sure of Victory Although 40,000 Urge Retention of League Rule.

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Territory, Jan. 7.—Voting began today, quietly and without violence, in the momentous plebiscite whereby the Saar basin will determine its future territorial affiliation.

Today, tomorrow and Wednesday some 20,000 civil servants, railway employees, gendarmes, and other government employees are balloting. The general public votes on Sunday to determine whether the territory governed by the League of Nations since 1919, shall remain under league control, join France, or go back to Germany.

GERMANS IN FRONT

Something of the relative strength of the opposing factions in the poll was indicated yesterday, when about 200,000 pro-Germans cried "we're going home!" in the slushy sleet on one side of the town, and police herded some 40,000 favoring retention of league sovereignty on the other side of the capital. Their cry was "for Germany, but never for Hitler."

Minor clashes were reported, and wire to loud speakers at the Nazi meeting were cut, but there was no repetition of the battles of New Year's day, in which two died and eight were seriously hurt.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—That Germany, assured of victory, wants the Saar plebiscite to run its course as peacefully as possible was evident today from speeches made by two men high in Nazi councils yesterday.

Dillinger's Attorney

Faces Trial Tuesday

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Whether or not the wooden gun brandished by the late John Dillinger in his sensational escape from the Crown Point, Ind., jail, was in reality a gun of gold, may soon be learned.

Louis Piquett, one-time city prosecutor and subsequently attorney for Dillinger and other members of his bandit crew, will go on trial in federal court here tomorrow charged with harboring and concealing Dillinger following the latter's escape from the Crown Point jail.

Philip Lutz, Jr., attorney general of Indiana, has openly charged gold and not the famed fake pistol carved by Dillinger from a washboard, enabled the outlaw to make his escape. The price of Dillinger's freedom was reported to have been $11,000.

Effort Made to Move
Ward Steamer

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7.—Exhausted and suffering from exposure, yet thrilled by their adventure, 38 passengers and 39 sailors of the Ward liner Havana, which nosed into Mantilla coral reef off the Bahamas at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning, arrived here aboard the Southern Pacific freighter El Oceano early today.

Eleven passengers and 13 members of the crew were due in Havana, Cuba, on the United Fruit steamer Peten at 11 a. m. The body of Robert W. Rittenhouse, 50, retired merchant of Brooklyn, N. Y., who died of apoplexy, was reported abandoned in a lifeboat. He was the sole casualty.

CAPTAIN ON BOARD

"All's well" was the latest word radioed by Capt. A. W. Peterson, 49, who remained aboard the Havana with 82 members of the crew, but an earlier message said two holds were filling with water. Tugs were fighting a heavy sea to pull the Havana off the shoal.

Calm and order, contrasting with the panic aboard the fire-swept Morro Castle of the same line, prevailed on the Havana as the El Oceano, Peten, and four other steamers deflected from their courses to her aid.

The passengers were given a warm breakfast before they were ordered into lifeboats, two hours after the first SOS crackled over the gulf stream. The Havana was in no immediate danger. Capt. Peterson radioed, but he was taking no chances on a repetition of the Morro Castle holocaust.

Six lifeboats bobbed on the roll. Continued On Page Three

CONGRESS RACE IS TAKING FORM

It is a long while between now and the next congressional election but aspirants to Mel G. Underwood's job have already started to enter the field.

It was but a few weeks after the election when Harry B. Welch, of Rockbridge, announced he would positively be a candidate. Saturday, Louis M. Day, of Chillicothe, who asked while visiting in Lancaster, if he would again be in the contest, said: "I possibly will."

It is also reported from Lancaster that Dr. J. M. Lantz, head of the school board there, will be a candidate.

Welch, Day and Lantz were all among the candidates defeated by Mr. Underwood last fall.

No one has been advanced yet as Pickaway-co's candidate. Whether John F. Mader, who received a splendid vote in his last campaign last fall, will run is not certain.

If he follows his present plans, Congressman Underwood will not be in the race in 1936. Only a few weeks after the last election the New Lexington man let it be known he would not be in the race. He is planning to establish a daily newspaper in New Lexington, if he does not change his plans.

MANY FEARED DEAD IN RUSSIAN WRECK

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—A huge toll in death and injuries was reported to have been taken in a collision of two express trains today 150 miles south of Leningrad.

Four relief trains, carrying doctors, nurses, and medical supplies, rushed to the scene, and the hospitals in the towns of Malvinskaya and Okulovka were filled with the maimed.

The Moscow express rammed the Tiflis express, and three coaches caught fire.

PRESIDENT HAS COLD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Roosevelt remained away from the executive offices today, nursing a cold contracted during his trip to the capitol on Friday.

He planned to transact some business, however, in his study. He was scheduled to discuss with Secretary of Labor Perkins late today details on the social security program which probably will be presented to congress later in the week.

LEECH, OF FEDERAL LAND BANK, TALKS IN CITY TUESDAY

Word has been received from Louisville, Ky., that W. E. Leech, from the Federal Land bank, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of the Pickaway-co National Farm Loan association to be held Tuesday afternoon, January 8, at the Farm Bureau home at 1:30 o'clock.

Mr. Leech will speak on the "Farm Outlook for 1935."

TWO SPEAKERS FOR C. C. MEET

Carlton Dargusch and Charles Watkins to Feature Thursday Program.

"The best meeting of the year" is the title given the annual session of the Chamber of Commerce to be held Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at Hanley's tearoom by its president, Reed Shafer.

"We are going to have two speakers," Mr. Shafer said, "and both will have much information for the good of every Circleville business and professional man."

One will be Carlton Dargusch, state tax commissioner, and the other will be Charles E. Watkins, of Chicago, former General Motors executive and a past district governor of Indiana Rotary clubs.

Dargusch, Mr. Shafer said, will be here in person or will send an efficient representative.

Reservations for the meeting are to be made with either Harry Steinhauser or Mack Parrett, Jr. It is believed a large crowd will attend the meeting. Newly elected directors will also be announced.

10 YOUTHS ENTER NEW FOREST CORPS

Ten Pickaway-co youths were taken to Columbus Monday morning as part of another unit of Civilian Conservation corps members. The boys were enrolled at the county relief administrator's office.

They include: Marcus Graves, Thomas Rhoades and Herman Wiltschko, all of Adams, England, Salt Creek; Harold Gilmore, Mullinsburg; Paul Harrison, Perry; Ross Messmore, Scioto; Richard McGath, Monroe; Clarence Sheets, Perry and Luther Speakman, Deer Creek.

Charles Keck, of Harrison-twp, who was to be the eleventh member of the group, did not arrive in time to accompany the others but his father was making an effort to get him to Columbus in time. John Ferguson, this city, was selected as an alternate.

COUNTRY CLUB MEETS JAN. 16

The annual meeting of active members of Pickaway Country club will be held Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 8 p. m., Clark Mill, service, announced today.

Free trustees are to be elected at the meeting. The terms of C. D. Hamilton, F. E. Caldwell and W. G. Hamilton expiring, Dr. J. J. Phillips is president of the club.

A proposal is to be voted to amend the code of regulations by the addition of a new section which would give the trustees power to make such revisions as seen necessary in dues and fees for the betterment of the club.

HAY BURNS IN BARN ON THATCHER FARM

The fire department answered two calls Sunday, one on the S. E. Thacher farm near Thatcher and the other at the old Patton property, S. Scioto-st. at Ohio.

The Thatcher call was received at Robert Young at 9:45 a. m. when hay in the barn caught fire. About $100 worth of hay was damaged while the only other damage was done by two mules which broke their harness to escape. Jack Hill is the tenant on the farm.

The Patton property call was only a smoke scare.

Four Others on Job

SHORT STUDIES TASK

Pickaway Man Heads
Commission Board

Two new Pickaway-co officials had assumed their positions today and a third was on the "scene" learning some of the duties of the task he will begin early in March.

The new officials are Miss Hilda Burns, recorder, and C. Edward White, commissioner, who succeeded Mrs. Mary G. Morris and John C. Hay, respectively. For the past year, who will soon replace Clifford M. White as auditor, was in the commissioner's room this morning learning the ropes.

All three of the officials are Republicans. It has been many years since the Pickaway-co court house has seen so many Republican office-holders.

FOUR OTHERS ON JOB

Four other officials began new terms Monday: Charles Radcliff, sheriff; Ray W. Davis, prosecutor; A. L. Wilder, clerk of courts, and C. E. Bowers, coroner. Of this group Davis is the only Republican.

After Short takes office the only other change in the county organization will come in September when Robert G. Colville becomes treasurer succeeding Earl L. Hoffman. Judge Joseph W. Adkins began his second term January 1, while the terms of Probate Judge C. C. Young, Commissioners Burr H. Rader and Ralph E. May, and Engineer Howard Sweetman do not expire for two more years.

Each of these are four year terms with the common pleas judge's being for six years.

RADER IS PRESIDENT

The new board of commissioners, which sees a Republican return after all three offices have been held by Democrats for two years, organized Monday morning with Mr. Rader being elected president succeeding Mr. Hay.

M'CRADY HEADS K. OF P. LODGE

T. M. Glick, Circleville-twp will act as installing officer this evening at 7:30 o'clock when new officers of the Knights of Pythias lodge take their chairs.

The new officers include: Henry T. McCrady, vice-chancellor; commander George Byers; prelate Robert Dorman; keeper of seals and records, L. S. Warner; Master of finance, J. B. Majors; Master of exchequer, J. B. Wilson; master at arms, Allen Hoover; inner guard Virgil Brown; outer guard, Russell Miller.

The annual meeting of active members of Pickaway Country club will be held Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 8 p. m., Clark Mill, service, announced today.

Free trustees are to be elected at the meeting. The terms of C. D. Hamilton, F. E. Caldwell and W. G. Hamilton expiring, Dr. J. J. Phillips is president of the club.

REVOLVING PENSION PLAN IS RELATED BY CALIFORNIA DENTIST

CLEVELAND, Jan. 7.—Painting a word picture of 10,000 aged men and women all over the country becoming "money circulators" for the government, thus abolishing poverty forever, Dr. E. Townsend, Los Angeles dentist and advocate of the revolving pension plan which proposes to give $200 a month to every man and woman over 60, today left a glowing impression of the 2,500 persons he addressed here.

The plan to meet the $200 a month would be paid to each of the 10,000 aged men and women from a 1 per cent transaction tax levied on all business transacted in the country. Dr. Townsend said.

State's Exhibit No. 16

This is a closeup of the thumb-guard worn by the Lindbergh child on the night when he was kidnapped and slain. The guard, which Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, found 100 yards from the Lindbergh home in Hopewell, N. J., is being used as exhibit number 16 by the state in the trial of Bruno Hauptmann.

BRUNO'S TALE NOW AWAITED

Believe Story of Money in His Possession Will Be Changed by Reilly.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—The biggest sensation of the drama-packed murder trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann will occur when the taciturn defendant takes the witness stand.

His explanation of how he came into possession of more than $14,000 of the yellow-backed Lindbergh ransom bills—the most damning evidence against him in the case—will provide the greatest surprise of the trial, a source close to the defense said today.

Thus far Hauptmann has offered only one story—a story too fantastic even for the fantastic case to account for his ownership of the money. He said that Isidor Fisch, a sickly Jewish furrier, gave him the money for safe-keeping last year before Fisch sailed for Germany where he died.

Hauptmann said Fisch gave him the money in a shoebox, carelessly wrapped in old newspapers. He said he was unaware the box contained money until rain from a leaky roof over a closet at Hauptmann's Bronx home soaked into the package last fall, about two weeks before his arrest.

It was one thing to relate this story in a perfunctory police examination. It will be an entirely different thing to tell it to a hard-headed New Jersey jury.

The state's chief counsel, realizing this, Hauptmann does not, now. Continued On Page Six

REPORT 4 THEFTS

Harry Gordon, of the Circleville Iron and Metal Co., reported to police Monday that someone broke into the office of his junk yard over the weekend and stole a check writer valued at $85.

The Plymouth car of Marsh Barnes, 1045 E. Mead-st, which was stolen Saturday evening, was later found on S. Scioto-st. by police.

Mrs. Hildebrand Jones informed police Monday that the police dog belonging to her son, Burn, was missing.

Harry Woodard, S. Scioto-twp. told Sheriff Charles Radcliff, Sunday, that a thief stole 25 gallons of gasoline from his station Saturday night.

GOW KEY WITNESS

Wilentz Laughs At Four-
People Story

COURTROOM, Flemington, N. J., Jan. 7.—Bravely fighting back tears, Miss Betty Gow, key witness and the Lindbergh baby's nurse, on the stand today at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann identified the woolen shirt and sleeping suit the child wore the night he was kidnapped.

She identified cloth from which the little shirt was cut. She took the pathetic exhibits in her hands and showed them to the jury.

She also identified some blue silk thread that was given to her by Mrs. Elsie Whately, the Lindbergh butler's wife, and used by Betty in sewing the baby's shirt.

NAMES THUMB GUARD

She identified the thumb guard she had tied around the baby's wrist.

The jury of four women and eight men leaned forward in their seats, as did the crowded roomful of spectators, as Miss Gow—the last person to see the baby alive—told of the happenings in the Lindbergh home on the fatal night of March 1, 1932.

Miss Gow was near tears as she told of the last night she put her baby charge to bed.

Col. Lindbergh shifted uneasily in his chair.

She was asked if shutters on the French windows were closed. She said they were closed securely.

Miss Gow then told how she prepared the child for bed.

Miss Gow's eyes were brimming with tears at this juncture, but she fought them back.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz permitted her to leave the stand to point out on a chart the location of the baby's nursery. She regained her composure.

Miss Gow said she went to the sitting room of the naming Rep. Arthur Hamilton (R) Lebanon, speaker. But there was a loud rumble of dissatisfaction among Republican members over Hamilton's endorsement by the party caucus.

Charges that the utilities and other "special interests" dictated his selection were heard openly at the caucus. Taking advantage of this discontent, the Democrats openly invited dissatisfied members across the aisle to help them elect Bittinger speaker.

Democratic state headquarters insists that no patronage has been held out to Republicans as an inducement to bolt Hamilton for Bittinger, but any who do were virtually certain of choice committee assignments.

ALL MEMBERS PRESENT
Bittinger and his forces claimed all Democratic members would be present. The Republicans, working on a poll of their own group, had arrived at no final conclusion as to possible absentees.

Secretary of State George S. Myers, a Democrat, will preside in the lower house during the selection of a speaker. Supreme Court Judge Edward S. Matthews, a Republican, will administer the oath to the 135 members.

In the Senate, where the Democrats have 19 of the 32 seats, there was not the slightest doubt that Sen. Paul Yoder (D) Dayton, would be named president pro tem and majority floor leader; that Sen. Frank Whittemore (R) Akron would get the minority floor leadership; that Dwight Ma'chette (D) Greenville, would be named clerk and that the Democrats would decide who is to occupy each senate post for the next two years.

WOMAN ON STEAMER
At least one woman, a stewardess, was still on the Havana this morning. A reporter flying over the ship, 135 miles northeast of Havana, before boarding the El Oceano, could see her on the deck, where members of crew were placidly at work. A small dog played on the top deck.

The liner rested snugly in about eight feet of water, apparently held in a vise between two reefs. Three coast guard cutters were trying to help the tug's approach her.

The sea had abated this morning, but the ship was taking a heavy pounding, and was in danger of breaking up.

The Havana advised offices of the line at 4:20 o'clock yesterday morning that she was in trouble, but did not send out an S. O. S. until 6:52 a. m. In the haze which prevailed, she was cast off her course, 15 miles east of the shoals she would have cleared.

Apply the motifs and cutwork to a choice combination of two of the most popular forms of needlework. And, if you prefer you can do the motifs entirely in cutwork. However, you will find the butterfly patch easy to apply and at the same time adding an effective note of color. You simply baste on the patch, leaving the edges raw, and then just buttonhole over these edges. To get a further color effect and it is a very dainty one, you can do the roses and the leaves in colored buttonholing.

FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN SPRING

The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, have everything to do with this printed black silk ensemble worn by Pat Peterson, Hollywood actress from England. A crush belt of two-toned rose ribbon marks the waist. The low-cut neck of the gown is finished with roses cut from the fabric, and there is a short coat which takes for its model the robe, sleeves and hood of the Franciscan fathers. It is an exquisite costume for blond Pat.

"Illustrations of Nests, Eggs of Birds of Ohio"

A recent book on Ohio Art and Artists, in giving an introduction to an appreciation of the above named work, says "An incident seemingly very insignificant may lead to amazing results." In the article following, this product of an idea, conceived and developed in Circleville, more than fifty years ago, is described as "supreme among ornithological publications."

An interest in the study of nature brought the realization that, in all the books and writings, including some by the most famous naturalists of the world, little or no attention had been given to the nests and eggs of birds. In 1877, Miss Genevieve Estelle Jones, of Circleville, determined to make a series of plates illustrating the nests and eggs of Ohio birds, and, with the assistance of an intimate friend, Miss Eliza J. Shulze, soon arranged a plan of work.

MADE AGREEMENT
The young ladies had done some drawing with pencil, and coloring with brush, but neither had received any special training. Having decided that lithography offered the best means of presenting their work, they set themselves to acquire skill in the drawing upon lithographic stone. They agreed to do the drawing and coloring themselves and arranged with Dr. Howard Jones, brother of Miss Jones, to collect and arrange the nests and eggs to be illustrated.

Dr. Jones, who had previously made a thorough study of the subject, was also to write the text, to accompany the illustrations when published.

After some weeks of practice, Miss Shulze produced Plate I, and Miss Jones, Plate II. These having been printed successfully, several more were completed and the first six colored.

A prospectus of the work having been sent out to such persons as could be heard of, who might be interested, and a few subscribers having been obtained, Plates I, II, and III, with their accompanying text, were issued as Part I.

This first part was sent out in July, 1879, and the first encouraging comments were just being received when Miss Jones was taken ill, with typhoid fever, and died on Aug. 17, 1879, aged thirty-two years.

At first the future of the work was in doubt, but the mother of Miss Jones determined that the plan of her daughter should be carried out, and arranged to assist Miss Shulze with the work.

WITHDREW IN 1880
After some months Miss Shulze transferred her financial interest to Dr. N. E. Jones, who assumed all expenses. Miss Shulze was employed to make the drawings upon stone, and Mrs. Virginia Jones to do the coloring. In April, 1880, Miss Shulze withdrew entirely from the undertaking. Not wishing to abandon the work, Mrs. Jones determined to do the drawing as well as the coloring, but, owing to the great amount of labor, or assistance was found necessary.

Miss Nellie Jacob, of Circleville, was engaged to color the eggs and later Miss Josephine Kidpart of Columbus, Ohio, gave valuable assistance in coloring nests, and still later, Miss Kate Gephart, of Circleville, was employed with her brush for nearly a year.

Of the plates drawn on the lithographic stone, ten were the work of Miss Shulze, five of Miss Genevieve Jones, and all of the remainder by Mrs. Virginia Jones. The text was all prepared by Dr. Howard Jones. Begun in 1878, the work was brought to completion in 1886. It was published in parts, and sent out to subscribers as completed and contracted for.

The text accompanying the plates contained the name of the bird—with date of residence in Ohio.

Locality of nest.
Position.
Materials.
Description of eggs.
Differential points.
Remarks.

The completed work contains a preface and introduction. The preface, from which this article is largely compiled, tells the history of the production of the work. The introduction gives a complete resume of the physical geography of Ohio and its relation to bird life.

Throughout the book valuable scientific information and personal observations are given.

MANY OWNED LOCALLY
While many of the books were owned locally by friends and those particularly interested in the undertaking, others became the valued possessions of many noted naturalists.

uralists and naturalists, and among those of the most notable local writers may be found Dr. Brewer, co-author of "American Birds" says: "I can not fail to take high rank, above anything of the kind that has appeared in this country."

Dr. Cones, whose "Key to North American Birds" remains a standard work, wrote "I had no idea that so sumptuous and elegant a publication was in preparation, and I am pleased that what promised to be one of the great illustrated works on North American ornithology should be prepared by women."

Mr. Minot, author of "Land and Game Birds of New England," commented "My enthusiasm has not been so excited for a long while. After careful consideration, I can think of no book on natural history in which the beauties of art and nature are so largely combined."

At the World's Fair, in Chicago, in 1893, special awards were made on the beauty and excellence of this work.

In a recent lecture on "Arts in Books", Dr. Jens Christian Bay, librarian of the John Clevier Library of Chicago, said: "and from a little town in Ohio came one of the most beautiful books ever produced in America."

In adding this work to the Circleville Public Library, it is felt that a duty to the community is fulfilled and a memorial provided, that will furnish inspiration to future generations.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Huston and daughters, Barbara and Beverly, N. Court-st., were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yearling of Columbus.

ASHVILLE FIVE TOO FAST FOR TIGER VARSITY

Scores Tallies 18 While Team-mates Add to 40-21 Score; Reserves In Victory.

Ashville high school continued its drive Saturday evening toward recognition in this section of Ohio by soundly thrashing the Circleville varsity, 40-21. The villagers played their driving, fast offense with nimble scores again the leading feature.

Although Coach Pete Herberholz played two men on him the entire game, Scores effected for eight action shots and tossed the leather through the hoop twice from the varsity circle. He scored 12 points in the first half while Krawin and Speakman were watching him but he settled down in the second half getting but five points. Whenever Scores was bottled up, however, Walter Gregg, mile sophomore, or some other athlete would break loose. The entire winning team was hot.

GETS BALL, ITS POINTS

Coach Pete Herberholz, benefitted by scouting the Ashville-New Holland game, had a good defense worked out for the Ashville flash but it just wouldn't work. Every time the big fellow got his hands on the ball it was points.

Scores scored on the first tipoff, taking a pretty pass from Young. The period ended 6-3 with the Ashville star getting five of his team's six points. Jenkins' basket and Speakman's free throws comprised the Tiger quota. Gregg's basket, Young's free toss and Scores' eight points on four shots from the floor gave Ashville 17 at the half while Grant was counting from the field and Henry was tossing a foul to make the Tiger quota six.

The third period was the best played by the Red and Black with 11 points tallied against 13 for the winners, but the final session saw the Tigers get but four against 10.

ALL SCORE ONCE

Every man who entered the game for Ashville scored at least once.

A large crowd saw the fray with Ridenour, Canal Winchester minister, officiating.

The Tiger reserves put on a splendid offense to defeat the Ashville 'futures', 36-10, with big John Griffith enjoying a big evening with his grandfather and an uncle in the audience.

The Tigers led 9-0, 17-2, 25-6 and 36-10.

Griffith, playing forward and center, scored 14 points. 'Cutie' Hedges, guard, was best for Al Kauber's boys.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

MAY PLAY WATERLOO

It was reported at Ashville Saturday evening that a game is being sought with the Ashville Waterloo team scheduled in February. It is doubtful if Ashville can guarantee the Waterloo team enough spectators to come to the Harrison-way village and it seems to us it would be well worth while if the town's merchants would chip a little into a pot to provide enough money to back the Waterloos, who are the talk of Ohio basketball right now.

HERE AND THERE

Coach Shadel Samuels of New Holland was in the state Saturday night trying to get the latest information on the Ashville team which has beaten his county champions twice this year. New Holland dropped a tough one to Franklin Friday evening. The Chillicothe-Greenfield encounter won by the latter, 23-20, was a thriller. It required overtime. Jimmy Hull, of course, was the star. Tigers play their second game of the C.H.L. season Friday evening at Delaware. Frank Colley of the Dispatch says the game is a toss-up with the Tigers having a chance if they play on.

O. N. G. TO WASHINGTON

It was announced in Washington C. H. today that the Ohio National Guard basketball tournament, open to all O. N. G. outfits in Ohio, will be held in that fair city Feb. 21, 22 and 23. Lieut. Virgil Sexton will be in charge. The tournament is sanctioned by Adj. Gen. Frank Henderson, commander of the O. N. G. and his successor, Major Emil Metz. It is believed around 20 teams will take part. Whether either of the best units will play is not certain at this time.

AVERAGES 19.4-7 POINTS

For some reason we can't seem to get this series out of this column. In seven games played to date we have scored 137 points, an average of 19.4-7 points per game.

BUCKEYES FACE MICHIGAN FIVE

ANN ARBOR, Mich. Jan. 7.—The Big Ten league already blemished by a 22 to 21 defeat at the hands of Iowa last Saturday, Ohio State university basketball players were to arrive here today for the first of the season's two scheduled clashes with the University of Michigan.

Although neither team was rated as a contender for the Big Ten championship, the cage game tonight took on the aspects of a grudge battle, with The Bucks out to avenge two defeats handed them by the Wolverines last year.

Michigan also will go into the game tonight fresh from defeat. The Wolverines succumbed to Syracuse Saturday night.

Deny Turning Pro

Amateurism, that is, the fact that he is not a professional, is denied by the man in the picture above. He is a professional and would play with Bill Tilden and others in William, O'Brien's touring troupe, were being played by Miss Jacobs and Perry. Miss Jacobs said she was planning to turn pro and Perry, generally regarded as world champion, declared he would remain an amateur unless offered a million pounds.

Louis May Be Baer Challenger

Joe Louis

Patsy Perroni

Wearing his thirteenth straight fight, Joe Louis, Detroit, Negro, gave Patsy Perroni, tough Cleveland heavyweight, "a bust on the nose" during their 10-rounder in Detroit. Perroni was floored three times for a one count, but managed to stay the distance though thoroughly beaten. Louis' decisive victory stirred the possibility of a challenge to Max Baer, heavyweight champion.

HARLOW NEW GRID COACH at HARVARD

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Two weeks ago, Bill Bingham, graduate manager at Harvard, harangued the football coaches association about ideals, the higher aim and other trivium of American football, the man's manner being both earnest and just a shade plaintive. Last night, Mr. Bingham announced that after due deliberation, he had hired Dick Harlow, of Western Maryland, as head football coach at Harvard for the season of 1935.

FIRST NON-HARVARD MAN

He is the first non-Harvard man to be permitted the privilege of coaching Harvard men in the history of the institution and, not to draw too many parallels, there also was some talk a few weeks ago of Harlow being offered the job of coaching the Boston Redskins, a group of zealous young men who go out to die for dear, old Leze Star Dietz on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. In other words, you don't de-emphasize a thing with Dick Harlow. He's quite a football coach.

MAY END FESLER JOB

Harlow is to have the choice of his own assistants, which seems to forecast the end of those still hanging on at Cambridge. Of course no one can blame Harlow if he throws the 1934 line up away. With Eddie Casey, Harvard, as head coach and Wesley Fesler, of Notre Dame, as assistants, they were using the scrambled egg and marmalade system.

TIE AT MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7. Tommy Armour, former U. S. open champion and present Canadian open titleholder, and Willie Klein, East Williston, N. Y., were tied for the lead with 139 strokes at the half-way mark in the 72-hole Miami open golf championship as 75 survivors began the final 36-hole round today.

Klein added a 71, one over par yesterday while Armour, the early leader, took a 73. Dave Tosh, Chicago, was third with 141 and Joe Turnesa, Hartford, Conn., fourth with 142. Bobby Cruikshank, Richmond, Va., carded a 68, a worst round of the day, for a total of 143.

HOWELLS RENAMED

COLUMBUS, Jan. 7.—William C. Howells, Columbus Plain Dealer, has been renamed president of the Ohio Legislative Correspondents' association.

Former Missouri state coach and coach of the Kirkville, Mo., Teachers' college, Don Faurot, above, is appointed to succeed Frank Cardozo as head football coach at the University of Missouri. His Kirkville team did not lose a game during the last three years.

ASHVILLE HOUSES BEING NUMBERED

The Columbus Railway, Power & Light Company who purchased the Ashville Light and Power Company last December are signing up service applications and placing street numbers on the buildings of the village. This service is gratuitous and will be a great convenience to all.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Courtright, of Main-st., have returned from a visit with their son, John Courtright and family in Cleveland. Mrs. Ida Noggle and Miss Monna Lea Ferguson were entertained over the holidays by C. W. Ferguson and family at Marietta. Mrs. Clarence E. Squire, who has been the guest of her son, Emerson Squire in Paris, France, the past several weeks, arrived home Saturday.

NEWSPAPER MOVING

The plant of the Pickaway-co News is being removed from the S. D. Fridley building on Bortz-st. to the Plum building on Main-st.

IN NEW RESIDENCE

Frank Morrison and family recently removed from the Jennings property to the Ebert property on N. Long-st. vacated by Luther Cooper, Jr.

The Indian Head Penny

No one person poses for the design on the Indian head penny. The Treasury department always states that the designs are idealized conceptions of the artists. Very often several models are used.

Wins Chair by Air

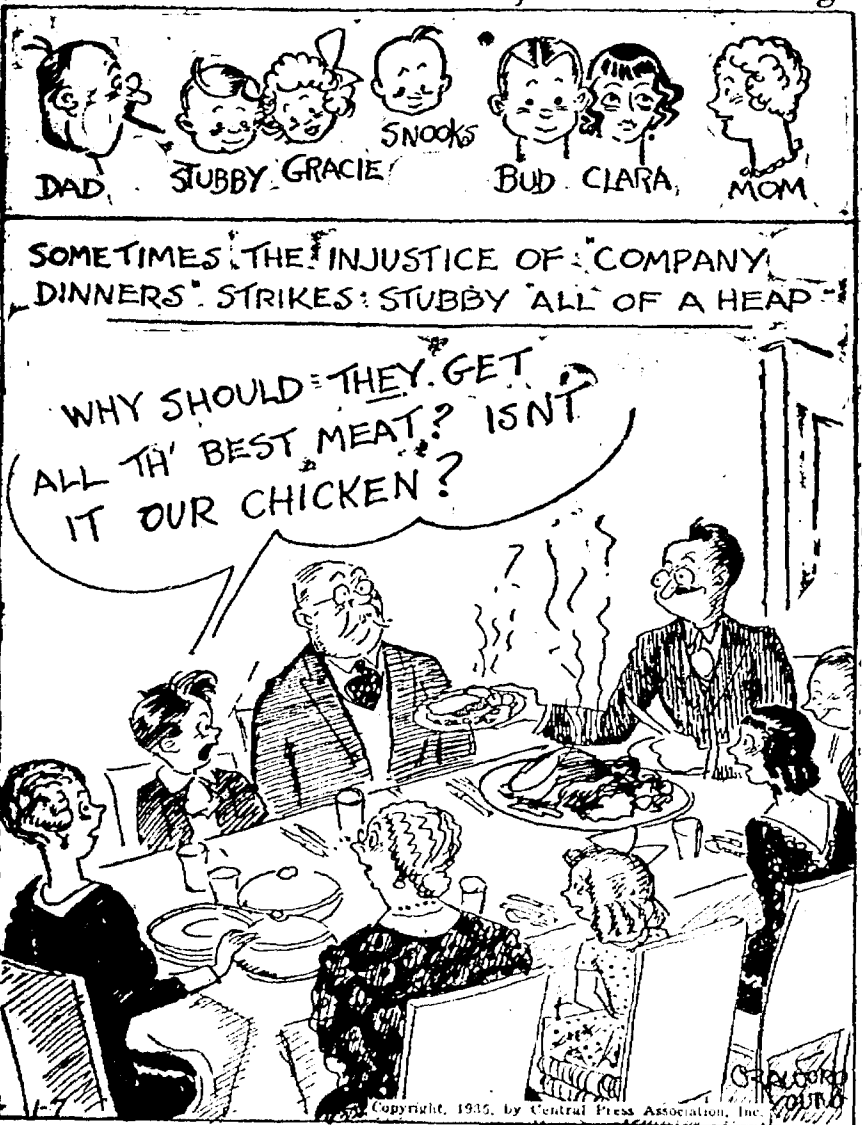

Amos N. Blandin

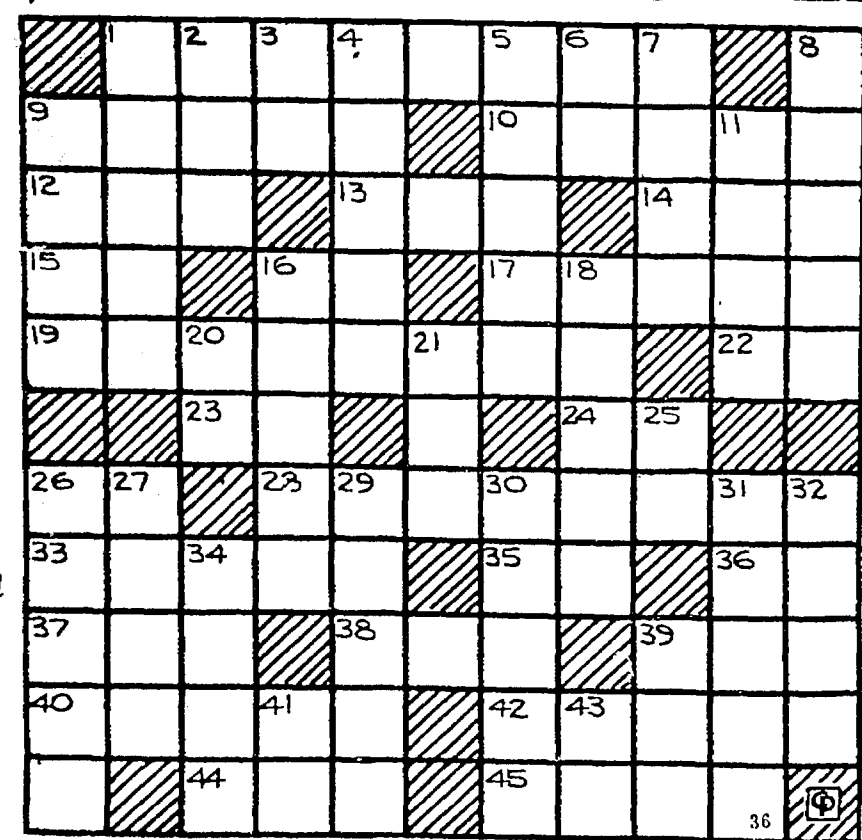

While Republicans, in the majority, were held snowbound in their home towns, Amos N. Blandin, above, was elected speaker of the New Hampshire house of representatives, the second Democrat to hold that honor in 60 years. The Democratic state committee used airplanes to bring legislators to Concord for the opening, resulting in a six-vote victory for Blandin.
